

The Uninterrupted War on Narcotics Goes On

By WALTER S. CLARK JR.

An uninterrupted war on suppliers and users of narcotics in the Mid-Hudson Valley, which resulted in six arrests in the Ellenville area Friday night, brought about the further arrests of seven persons in Dutchess County in the last two days.

District attorneys in Ulster, Dutchess and adjoining counties have vowed with determination to continue Operation U.N.C.-L.E. in an effort to combat dangerous drugs traffic in the area.

Five Still Jailed

Five of the six men seized in simultaneous raids conducted by District Attorney Joseph P. Torraca and staff, with the cooperation of Ellenville State and Village Police, remained in the county jail in lieu of bail of $5,000 cash or $10,000 property bond.

Charles Mutz, 72, of Kerhonkson, one of the six, is free in bail pending hearing Thursday before Ellenville Police Justice Ronald Elias.

The other five are confined in jail. They are Frank Vega, 40, and Louis Rosado, 30, both of Maple Avenue, and Victor Sanchez, 31, Harry Guzman, 23, and Benedetto Lopez, 23, all of Center Street, Ellenville.

Two Dutchess County men were taken into custody Saturday night by Town of Poughkeepsie police and charged with criminal possession of a dangerous drug, fourth degree.

Police Chief Charles Schade said Patrolman Alfred Smith Jr., was on patrol on South Road near the IBM plant when he stopped a car for a routine check of the occupants. The patrolman said that as the car stopped he saw one of the men throw an object to the pavement, and later examination disclosed five alleged marijuana cigarettes.

Chief Schade identified the two accused men as William R. Kendall, 18, of Booth Boulevard, Chelsea and John D'Onofrio, 21, of Cedar Hill Road, Wappingers Falls.

Hearing Adjourned

Arraigned before Pleasant Valley Town Justice Thomas Vasti, both defendants were held in bail of $50 after pleading innocent. Hearing was adjourned pending a future court appearance.

Beacon City police arrested two men Saturday night on charges of fourth degree criminal possession of a dangerous drug, a misdemeanor. Authorities said Detective Herman Keenum and Patrolmen Donald Van Buren and Herbert Snook stopped a car on a city street to check the two occupants.

After an investigation and search of the vehicle police said they found a packet of marijuana. Arrested on the narcotics charges were Delfe Schmitz, 19, of Pine Ridge Drive, Hopewell Junction, and Richard Dubetsky, 21, of 9 Fulton Street, Wappingers Falls. They were scheduled to appear in City Court before Judge Thomas J. Lynch.

Another Routine Check

Two persons were arrested at 6:45 a. m. Sunday by Trooper George Lawson of the Fishkill State Police after he stopped a car for a routine check on East Main Street in Wappingers Falls. The two were charged with criminal possession of a dangerous drug, marijuana.

Troopers booked the accused as Lorraine Gayle, 21, of Beekman Street, Beacon, and Fred Overby Jr., also 21, of Salt Point. They were arraigned before Wappingers Town Justice John Pantalone and pleaded guilty to the narcotics charges.

The woman was given an unconditional discharge. Overby was fined $50. He also was charged with possessing a switch-blade knife and on his guilty plea he paid another $50 fine. Troopers said. On a charge of driving a car with unsafe tires, Overby was given an unconditional discharge.

At 11:45 a. m. Sunday, Trooper R. G. Dunlap of Fishkill stopped a pedestrian on Route 9 near Wappingers Falls for questioning. The man, identified as George G. Kalman, 18, of Huntinsdon Valley, Pa., was later charged with criminal possession of a dangerous drug—marijuana. Taken before Judge Pantaline, Kalman was held in $25 bail and hearing was adjourned pending further investigation.

Blackjack in Car

In another routine traffic check by Troopers Lawson and V. T. Burke, a car driven by Paul Arnold Durham, 22, of Cornwall, was stopped at 12:30 a. m. yesterday near Fishkill. The driver was later charged with passing a stop sign. He received a suspended sentence after pleading guilty before Fishkill Town Justice Francis T. Williams.

Troopers said Durham also was charged with possessing a dangerous instrument after a blackjack was found in the car. He pleaded guilty and paid a $10 fine on that charge.

Johnsons Holiday Away From Ranch

RAMEY AIR FORCE BASE, P.R. (AP)—Lady Bird Johnson apparently deserves most of the credit for prevailing on her husband to seek some fun in the sun away from the LBJ Ranch. President Johnson flies back to the White House today after a day and a half in Puerto Rico, his first holiday spent away from his home acres in Texas since he took office.

Mrs. Johnson is known to enthrall those around her. She is especially partial to the nearby Virgin Islands and has enjoyed several vacations there.

Daughter Lynda Bird and her husband, Marine Capt. Charles

S. Robb, honeymooned at Saint Johns, in the Virgin Islands. Thus it appears that Johnson family pressure to find a winter vacation land away from the ranch.

On the other hand, Johnson's Puerto Rican trip, with its emphasis on recreation, may have been prompted by a presidential hunch that it would do the country no harm, at a time of anxiety and frustration over the war in Vietnam, to see him pursuing a relaxed course.

Johnson's visit to this big base of the Strategic Air Command was brief. But old friends say a senator he used to get restless and leave such resort spas as Acapulco, Mexico, much sooner than he originally had planned. Before flying to Puerto Rico Saturday, he announced he would meet at the White House this afternoon with all parties involved in the 233-day copper strike.

The chief executive seemed to enjoy himself thoroughly in Puerto Rico. He headed for the air base golf course immediately upon arrival despite leaden skies and a fine mist.

His mood was such that he even invited photographers to record his form—something he had done only once before.

The sun shone brightly Sunday, producing pink and tender skins among the members of the traveling party who left Washington in the wake of a snowstorm. Once again, Johnson played golf. It was the first time the White House ever acknowledged that Johnson had golfed two days in a row.

The traveling White House made no effort to contend that Johnson had come to Puerto Rico to work. He did some of that, of course, as presidents must wherever they go.

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. Marines and air cavalrymen smashed into Communist troops Sunday in a series of battles in the northern sector of South Vietnam and reported killing nearly 300 of the enemy. U.S. losses were light, military spokesmen said.

Other U.S. troops suffered heavy losses in an ambush nine miles north of Saigon. The U.S. Command said a force of 200 Communists killed 48 Americans and wounded 28, most of them in the first eight minutes of the machine-gun attack.

Communist forces sent hundreds of rockets and mortars slamming into six allied air bases, two U.S. command posts and at least four other installations today in the heaviest series of shelling in a little more than two weeks.

150 Houses Burn

The U.S. command said that generally "damage was light or insignificant and casualties were very light" at the military bases. But one Viet Cong mortar attack on the town of Duc Duc, just below Da Nang, burned 150 houses to the ground, killed 20 civilians and wounded another, South Vietnamese military headquarters said.

U.S. pilots flew 68 missions against North Vietnam Sunday, many of them radar guided because of the overcasts spawned by the continuing northeast monsoons. The major strike of the day was an attack by Navy A6 Intruders from the carrier Enterprise on an 11-acre cargo transfer and storage complex on the Red River only 1.8 miles southeast of the center of Hanoi. It was the second attack on that target in three days.

In the central highlands near Kontum, Communist forces overran a hospital run by an American woman, Dr. Patricia Smith of Seattle, Wash. Incomplete reports indicated that Dr. Smith had escaped and an unidentified German nurse had been kidnapped. U.S. officials in Saigon assumed that four other foreigners at the hospital—two American nurses, a Danish nurse, and another German nurse—also escaped because the reports did not mention them.

One Sided

The American Marines scored a one-sided victory along the eastern side of the demilitarized zone just to the northeast of the allied strongpoint at Con Thine. The Marines reported killing 157 North Vietnamese soldiers in fighting that raged into Sunday night.

Early reports to the U.S.

Command in Saigon said two Marines were killed and eight wounded.

On the outskirts of Hue, infantrymen of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division reported killing 78 enemy troops, while inside the battered old imperial capital the Marines said they killed another 25 of the enemy in scattered fighting.

It was the second time in three days allied forces in the northern sector claimed lopsided victories. In several clashes at both ends of the DMZ last Friday, allied troops reported killing more than 300 Communist soldiers while suffering only light casualties.

The North Vietnamese kept up their daily shelling of the Marine base at Khe Sanh, at the western end of the DMZ. About 100 rounds of artillery and rockets were fired into the fortress Sunday, but casualties were reported light. And U.S. B52 bombers continued their daily raids on the enemy gun positions, troops concentrations and bunkers ringing Khe Sanh.

Red Ambush

The Communist ambush just north of Saigon occurred Saturday morning as a company from the U.S. 25th Infantry Division—normally 178 men—was reconnoitering a key highway. After the enemy opened up, more 25th Division companies were rushed to the scene, while U.S. fighter-bombers and helicopter gunships attacked the Communist positions.

The fighting died out at nightfall, and military spokesmen reported 20 Communist bodies were found later. Announcement of the U.S. reverse was held up for 24 hours.

U.S. headquarters disclosed the arrival last month of 6,500 U.S. Marines of the 27th Regiment to bolster the Leatherneck force defending Khe Sanh and the other posts below the DMZ. This completed the 10,500 American troops President Johnson ordered from the United States two weeks ago. U.S. troop strength in Vietnam now is about 510,000, with 15,000 more to come in the next few months, but Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the U.S. commander in Vietnam, has asked for still more to give American forces the initiative again after the setback of the Communist lunar new year offensive.

On the northwestern outskirts of Saigon, U.S. infantrymen from the 25th Division riding armored personnel carriers clashed again with elements of two Communist regiments in an area believed to be an assembly point for attacks on the capital.

Fighter-bombers, helicopter gunships and artillery pounded the entrenched Communists, and after 14 hours of fighting, 31 enemy troops were counted dead. Seven Americans were killed and 40 wounded.

Two Fatafs in Area; Five Injured in One

A 28-year-old Brooklyn man was killed in a one-car traffic accident in the Town of Shawangunk on Sunday, and a 62-year-old Dutchess County woman was fatally injured in a two-car crash in the Town of Wappingers Falls, which also injured five other persons.

County's Fifth

The Brooklyn man was Ulster County's fifth traffic fatality of 1968. The fifth highway death in the county in 1967 occurred on Feb. 1 on Route 44-45 in the Town of Plattekill. The victim was a 20-year-old Fairfield, Conn., man, who was killed when his car crashed into a utility pole near the Rocking Horse Farm.

State Police at Ellenville reported Robert Tlumak, of 646 East 95th Street, Brooklyn, lost his life shortly after noon Sunday when his car, operated by a woman, went out of control and hit a pole off Awosting Road, Dwarikill. He was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Luke's Hospital in Newburgh. Coroner Harvey L. Agnew gave a verdict of accidental death.

Skids, Hits Pole

BCI Investigator M. J. Bonney and Trooper C. R. Larson reported Tlumak was a passenger in his car driven by Marsha Fauser, 22, of 310 East 30th Street, New York City. The vehicle was traveling north and negotiating a right curve when it skidded off the highway and hit a utility pole. The weather was clear, the road dry, troopers said.

The woman was taken to Horton Memorial Hospital, Middletown, and treated for a fractured skull, internal injuries and lacerations of the face and legs. Her condition was listed as critical.

Fishkill State Police identified the victim of the Wappingers Falls accident as Celia Stanton, 62, of All Angel's Road, Hopewell Junction. Death was due to a broken neck.

Driver Cited

According to an investigation by Trooper Frederick Haight, the woman was a passenger in a car operated by Alvah Jackson, 65, of 144 Oak Street, Beacon. Jackson sustained lacerations of the right hand and was treated at Vassar Hospital. He was cited later for passing a stop sign. The summons is returnable before Wappingers Town Justice William Bulger at a later date.

The other vehicle involved in the crash which claimed the Hopewell Junction woman's life, was driven at the time by Douglas Baird, 38, of DeGarmo Hill Road, Wappingers Falls. He received abrasions of the right hip. His wife, Martha, 36, suffered fractured ribs and abrasions.

The Bairds' children, Keith, 10, and Paul, 8, also were injured and taken to the Poughkeepsie hospital for treatment. Keith suffered bruises of the forehead and left leg, and his brother sustained a fracture of the left leg.

Dutchess County Medical Examiner Dr. Chester H. Golding was at the scene to assist Trooper Haight in the investigation. He withheld a finding pending a formal inquest to be held later.

Trooper Haight's report noted that the Jackson car was traveling north on All Angel's Road and allegedly went through a stop sign. The Baird vehicle was going east on Myers Corners Road in the Town of Wappingers when the collision occurred.

Puerto Rican Beaches Threatened by Oil

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP)—An oil slick four miles long and a mile wide threatened to drive thousands of vacationing sun worshippers from Puerto Rico's luxury beaches today after a Liberian tanker broke up at the mouth of San Juan harbor.

Some of the Ocean Eagle's 6 million gallons of oil washed up on the white sand in front of the Caribe Hilton Hotel Sunday night, and the slick drifted toward the other luxury hotels along the beach in the plush Condado area.

Second Time

It was the second such mishap to a Liberian-flag tanker within a year. Last March 18, the 61,263-ton American-owned Torrey Canyon, five times as big as the Ocean Eagle, broke up on a reef off Britain's southwest coast and spilled millions of gallons of oil onto the beaches of southern England and France. The British government is suing the owners for $8,156,000 to pay for the cleaning operation.

The U.S. Coast Guard sprayed emulsifying chemicals on oil from the Ocean Eagle drifting into San Juan harbor and reported "encouraging results." U.S. Navy tugs brought more chemicals for the oil threatening the tourist beaches three miles away, but officials said trying to cover the entire slick would be a tremendous task.

"I don't think anybody will be swimming," said Carlos Santiago, assistant manager of the Caribe Hilton.

Oil still poured from the two halves of the 12,065-ton tanker and the front half was blocking the harbor entrance. Tugs attempted to pull it out to sea where it could be sunk without endangering traffic but had to give up because "apparently it is hard aground," a spokesman said.

Snaps in Two

First Mate Pangiotis Michaelopoulos said the ship dropped anchor at the harbor entrance about 7 a. m. Sunday to take aboard a harbor pilot, suddenly it snapped in two just behind the main superstructure.

"I heard a loud noise," he said. "Then I saw oil pouring from the sides of the ship into the water. A few minutes later we gave the order to abandon ship."

The 35-man Greek crew was taken off without injury in about 20 minutes.

The ship, owned by Transoceanic Tankers Corp. and Northern Transatlantic Carriers Corp., was carrying oil from Venezuela to the Caribbean oil refinery in San Juan.

Congress Pressured For Racial Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of the President's Commission on Civil Disorders are joining big-city mayors in pressuring a cost-wary Congress to take prompt, multibillion-dollar steps toward solving the nation's racial crisis.

Four commission members and a half-dozen mayors appeared on nationwide radio-television broadcasts Sunday and urged what one mayor termed "an infusion of billions of dollars to correct" conditions that spawned last summer's riots.

Involved in Campaign
The panel's landmark report became involved as well in the campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination. Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota cited it in a New Hampshire speech as he criticized the Johnson administration's priorities.

The commission made public during the weekend its 250,000-word analysis of last year's urban violence. Like the 12,000-word summary released two days earlier, the mammoth document was almost silent on how to meet the costs of the proposed programs, suggesting only that higher taxes may be necessary.

Key members of Congress, already caught in the fiscal crunch caused by the Vietnam war, are openly dubious about financing the commission's sweeping employment, education, housing and welfare programs.

Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex., of the House Appropriations Committee which must approve all money measures, said the panel's proposals could cost hundreds of billions of dollars. This, Mahon declared, makes them "wholly unrealistic."

Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York, vice chairman of the 11-member commission, acknowledged the recommendations "will be costly" to implement but said "the country has got to make up its mind, and the Congress must make up its mind, that the cost figure is relatively unimportant in terms of what we have to do in order to save this country from the possibility of chaos."

Solons Must Lead: Lindsay said "Congress must lead and the country must push Congress." Lindsay said, "Both must happen and unless it happens we're in for trouble."

In a move to generate this public push, commission members plan scores of appearances across the nation in the months ahead.

After the panel approved the report, Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., told newsmen he and other members have committed themselves to traveling around the country "to give wide dissemination of our views and to do all we can for the implementation of the recommendations."

The gist of the commission's recommendations were disclosed in the summary report released Thursday night. The full report also included proposals for:

—Another hike in the federal minimum wage, which climbed to $1.60 an hour only last month.

—Broadening the 7 per cent investment credit to give industry a tax incentive to locate new plants in poverty areas and train unemployed slum residents.

—Starting a system of government income supplements for any person—employed or jobless—who exists on substandard income. The commission said this "would involve substantially greater federal expenditures than anything now contemplated in this country."

But unless steps are taken, the report warned there will be "a seriously greater probability of major disorders, worse, possibly, than those already experienced."

"If large-scale violence resulted," it said, "white retaliation would follow. This spiral could quite conceivably lead to a kind of urban apartheid with semi-martial law in many major cities, enforced residence of Negroes in segregated areas, and a drastic reduction in personal freedom of all Americans, particularly Negroes."

Lindsay put it this way: "The cost of inaction... will far outstrip the cost of taking positive realistic action which the Congress has not to do."

While Lindsay was appearing on CBS' "Face the Nation" radio-television program, three other commission members were being interviewed on ABC's "Issues and Answers" and a half-dozen mayors were participating in NBC's "Meet the Press."

Won't Cost A Cent

The commission chairman, Gov. Otto Kerner of Illinois, said one step the nation can take—"just treat people as people, forgetting the color of their skin"—will "not cost one cent" yet will "remove a lot of the anger and the frustration and the hate that exists."

Sen. Fred R. Harris, another panel member, agreed and singled out the civil rights bill now stalled in the Senate. "It doesn't cost anything to pass an open-housing law," the Oklahoma Democrat said.

DEM VICTORY DINNER — Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan (right) was the main speaker at a victory dinner of Kingston Democratic Committee and the Kingston Democratic Men's Club. Participants (L) included Ernest Smith,

350 Attend Victory Dinner, Hear Party Virtues Extolled

By HUGH REYNOLDS

The benefits of belonging to the Democratic party were extolled last night at a victory dinner in the Walnut Grove by a variety of speakers including Sheriff William B. Martin, Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan and Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo.

More than 350 persons filled the Walnut Grove to hear the speakers, all brief, most humorous and some serious. Besides Martin, Garraghan and Gallo, speakers included Dr. Gerald P. Gorman, county Democratic chairman; Thomas R. Lyle, city chairman; Ernest L. Smith, Kingston sealer of weights and measures and dinner chairman, and Special City Judge George A. Beck, toastmaster.

Honored were all those Democrats elected or reelected in November. They included Garraghan and Gallo, Aldermen Mrs. Florence Shea Ludlow (First Ward, Clifford Sinsabaugh (Fifth Ward), Joseph Epstein (Sixth Ward), Edward Norton (Seventh Ward), Peter Mancuso (Eighth Ward), James Madden (Ninth Ward), Joseph Conlin (11th Ward) and William Davis (13th Ward). Also honored were county legislators Orrie Riehl and William Edelmut.

Johnson's Record

Dr. Gorman spoke of the record of President Lyndon B. Johnson and said the Vietnam War is overshadowing many accomplishments of the president.

Mayor Back At His Desk

Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan returned officially, to his duties this morning after six week's sick leave. He faces a light schedule today, meeting with department heads.

The mayor began his sick leave Jan. 22 after signing the 1968 budget. Rumors began to circulate immediately that he would not return but would run for some higher office.

Garraghan dispelled both rumors within the past two weeks. He has been coming in every day since late in January for a few hours and when questioned about the possibility of running for either congress or the assembly, Garraghan told "the Freeman" Friday afternoon, "All I'm interested in is finishing my term as mayor."

Garraghan plans to "take it easy" and avoid fights with the Common Council. "I'm through battling with those aldermen," he has been quoted as saying. The mayor will instead concentrate his effort on meeting with department heads and attending meetings of various city boards at night.

While Garraghan may be avoiding squabbles with the aldermen, he seems headed for a conflict with the county board of legislators. Speaking at a Democratic Victory dinner last night he called upon the legislators to pass a two-per cent county sales tax.

Garraghan had a sales tax passed in Kingston, the two per cent levy going into effect last Friday. He has offered to drop the city tax if the county goes for two per cent.

Skin Tests

All students enrolled at Kingston High School will be given the tuberculin skin test Tuesday.

The test is being made at the request of Dr. Vernon B. Link, Ulster County Health Commissioner, and is being done as a precautionary measure in the detection of tuberculosis.

Americans Ignoring Appeal Of President on Traveling

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many Americans apparently are ignoring President Johnson's appeal that they help ease the dollar drain by postponing travel outside the Western Hemisphere.

Officials handling a record volume of passport applications said they lack absolute proof but secondary evidence indicates many citizens decided to hurry visits to Europe ahead of a government tax on most overseas travel.

New Year's Plea

President Johnson announced on New Year's Day a broad program to stem a $3.5 billion balance-of-payments deficit. He appealed to "the American people to defer for the next two years all non-essential travel outside the Western Hemisphere."

Johnson said this could chop $500 million off the $2 billion deficit.

The administration later asked Congress for a tax of up to 30 per cent on U.S. tourists' spending outside the Western Hemisphere. That legislation still is pending.

Passport Office figures show applications for U.S. passports rose to 131,602 in January, a 26 per cent increase over January a year ago.

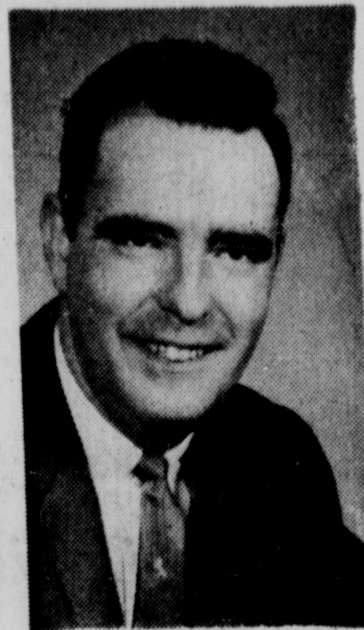

The Immigration and Naturalization Service, which keeps tabs on the number of people actually leaving the country, said its statistics show travelers tend to depart about two months after receiving passports.

About 3,000 A Day

From the combined figures, officials have forecast 95,000 departures to Europe in March—about 3,000 a day. An estimated 65,000 traveled to Europe in February.

January's 26 per cent passport rise ran more than double the increase rate of recent months.

Town Justice Seeks Nod for Sheriff Race

ROBERT FERRIGAN

The town justice in the Town of Kingston, Robert E. Ferrigan, today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for Ulster County sheriff.

Ferrigan will attempt to gain the nomination in order to unseat incumbent Democrat William B. Martin.

Ferrigan sought the sheriff's nomination in 1965, announcing two years ago almost to the date, but William Krum gained the nod instead. Krum lost to Martin.

The justice is thus the second candidate to declare himself officially for the post. Special investigator for the Ulster County district attorney's office Thomas Mayone announced his intentions to go after the post at a Saugerties meeting on January 20.

Judge Ferrigan has been in the town justice field for 10 years and during that time he has participated in various justice training courses at Albany Law School.

The Town of Kingston justice also conducted a justice training course in the adult education program at Kingston High School, and attended numerous seminars throughout the county.

He is also a member of the Knights of Columbus Council 275, St. Catherine Labouré Holy Name Society, and the Sawkill Volunteer Fire Company.

Ulster Projects Next?

At the general election in November, New York State voters approved the transportation bond issue authorizing $2.5 billion of state bonds to meet the rapidly growing transportation requirements of the state. Now New York City under the plan drawn up by the Metropolitan Commuter Transportation Authority will receive $1.6 billion needed for the initial 10-year phase to expand the subway system and overhaul other mass transit operations.

It was felt by the Authority that mass transit systems are physically and economically deteriorating, while massive governmental programs emerge for highway construction and development spending which pave the way for modern air technology.

The more crowded the cities become, the more important will it be to develop mass transit systems to relieve congestion as commuters pour in and out of the core city. Commuters must be served through developments in mass transportation whenever traffic congestion exists around metropolitan centers. The unhappy travelers here and now need less crowded ways to get to and from work.

We recommended approval by area voters of the massive bond issue because it provided that during the next five years Ulster County would have a new bridge over the Rondout Creek from Port Ewen to upper Delaware Avenue, modern highways in the Towns of Ulster and Saugerties and in Southern Ulster together with two local area airports. We felt that this was of tremendous importance for the future growth and development of Ulster County and justification for our endorsement.

We trust Governor Rockefeller, who said an equal amount of the bond issue would be expended upstate, will advance the highway and airport program for Ulster County so that work on the projects gets started in the very near future. Under the gobbledook and confusion of government bureaucratic dilly-dallying, upstate projects could be put off indefinitely.

The Whipping Box

The conference of Communist parties around the world, meeting in Budapest, originally was called to recognize the Soviet Union as the fountainhead of communism and to degrade such pretenses by Communist China. When not only China but Albania, North Korea, North Vietnam and Cuba abstained from the conference, the 67 represented parties found another whipping boy: The United States.

The moving spirit was the leader of the American Communist party, Gus Hall. Declaring that "American imperialism" is the central issue uniting the conference, Hall moved and the conference unanimously approved a resolution to send a message of sympathy and support for North Vietnam against "American aggression."

The issue as Hall sees it for the American Communist party is "how to save the American people from the policies of their government." Because, if the Republicans nominate former Vice President Richard Nixon and the Democrats nominate President Johnson, Hall said the American people would have no choice.

In that event, the American people can rest assured, on the highest Communist authority in this country, that they will be protected from the inroads of communism with either Johnson or Nixon as President.

Money May Have Effect In Lining Up Delegates

WASHINGTON—Governor Romney's withdrawal from the race for the Republican presidential nomination has produced a state of uncertainty and a kind of bewilderment inside the party. For Republican politicians throughout the country suddenly find themselves wondering if they should now make alignments such as normally would not materialize until just before a national convention is held.

Most of the delegates, of course, have not yet been chosen, but the party leaders are in a quandary because many of them would prefer not to commit themselves so early. When there are only two leading contenders, however, the pressure starts to be exerted long before convention time. Actually, Governor Rockefeller's public statement that he would accept a "draft" is regarded as virtually an announcement of his candidacy. Many of Romney's active workers now will start to mobilize "draft" sentiment for the New York governor.

While former vice president Nixon has substantial support in several states, his nomination depends upon how many of the delegates, which will naturally vote for their own "favorite son" on the first few ballots, are going to be willing eventually to wind up on his side.

Already the self-elimination by Governor Romney has caused some of the Republicans to say that the division now will be between a "liberal" or "moderate" — by which they mean Governor Rockefeller — and a "conservative," as Nixon is sometimes described. There are, to be sure, some public issues on which he has not agreed with the so-called "conservative" point of view in national affairs.

The Republicans will be making a mistake, however, if they begin to develop a cleavage and characterize either prospective candidate as "moderate" or "liberal" or "conservative." An indication of what can happen by reviving the issues which produced disunity at the 1964 convention may be derived from noting an interview which Barry Goldwater gave at Phoenix, Ariz., on Wednesday, immediately after the Romney announcement. The 1964 Republican candidate said that Governor Romney's withdrawal "puts the basic issues of the party right back to a clear-cut liberal and conservative situation."

When asked what effect the Romney announcement would have on the bid by former Governor Wallace of Alabama for the presidency, Mr. Goldwater said: "I think it would only intensify Wallace's efforts... because, you see, Rockefeller will represent the extreme liberal wing of the Republican party... and this is the reason that Wallace is running, in that he didn't feel the Republicans would put up a conservative — enough candidate. I think we are, in the form of Nixon."

There is a hint in this that if Nixon is nominated, Wallace might not run, but that, if Rockefeller is chosen by the convention, Wallace would certainly seek to head a third-party ticket.

For the next several months there will be a discussion among the Republicans in many states as to whether the so-called "liberal" vote in the Democratic party would move to the Republican side if Rockefeller is named, and whether President Johnson would derive the biggest benefit from the Wallace candidacy. For it would certainly draw "conservative" votes away from a Republican ticket headed by Rockefeller.

In the next five months the local delegations in the Republican party will have to make up their minds which candidate—Nixon or Rockefeller—would be likely to retain the existing Republican vote and gain a sizable number also from the Democratic side as well as from "independents."

Money may have a big effect on how the delegates finally are lined up because many Senators and all the members of the House are up for election this year, and they will be interested in any campaign funds which may be supplied to aid them and local officials in getting re-elected. Naturally, they would feel obligated to play ball with whatever faction in the Republican party gives them the biggest financial contribution.

The effect, therefore, of the Romney withdrawal is to start within the Republican party the making of commitments earlier than usual for one or the other of the leading presidential aspirants. It really means a series of pre-convention skirmishes that will not end until the convention actually assembles in August at Miami.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

A man named Reginald G. Damerell has written a book called "Triumph in a White Suburb" (Wm. Morrow). He has selected a small community in northern New Jersey—a town called Teaneck, for his case history. The lesson he draws is that white people face impending integration with hysteria and fear, and end by accepting it and living with it.

Most Teaneck citizens," he says, "are proud of the town's integration... But if ever a community proved that the so-called Negro problem is nothing so much as a white problem, it is Teaneck." He hangs the medal of good conduct on the town. It was the first in the nation to vote for integrated schools.

Will you permit me to go back a bit further in Teaneck reasearch? I moved there in 1939. The population was 15,000. There was a huge sign on Route Four which proclaimed "Teaneck is Restricted Community." The sign was aimed at the Jews rolling over the George Washington Bridge from The Bronx and Brooklyn.

Long before the town hated Negroes, it hated Jews. To prove that Jews were okay—in their place, of course—the town fathers appointed Dr. Barnett Bookstaver, a Jew, as health officer. They got him for peanuts. He was an old head when he was young. He used to warn me: "Patience."

Some of the tradesmen on Cedar Lane were Jewish. Most of them lived in Englewood or Hackensack. Secretly, some Jews bought a white house with a porch on Queen Anne Road and called it a Conservative synagogue. They got a rabbi from Georgia named Samul Geffen. We became friends because we were misfits. We used to debate in my house at high tea.

He had 30 people at Friday night services and five of them were part of a minyan. The word got out that the Jews were coming into Teaneck. We formed a group to help brotherhood in the town. This was a magnificent idea. In a short time, we found Jews who were anti-Semitic; we found that a bright attorney named Tommy Costa could not be made president of the board of education because his parents were Italian. It was a beautiful town. On a raised hand vote, the Jews decided against admitting any Negroes to our brotherhood organization.

The argument was: "How can I have my maid sitting with me at the meetings?" Dr. Barnett Bookstaver begged me to have "Patience. Please don't lecture them. Be twice as nice to them as they are to you, and all God's creatures will come together in time."

I told him God had the time; I didn't. Teaneck had an insufferable ego. The Saturday Evening Post had an article calling it a model community. The Catholics were another minority. The town voted not to send school buses to St. Anastasia School. Jews forced the real estate agents to sell property to them.

At once the town went out. The Christian exodus was on. Old Teaneck families moved to Saddle River and Ramsey.

The Jews bought. Soon, we had three synagogues. We had B'nai Brith, and Habasah, and the Sisterhood and United Jewish Appeal. Finn, the Irish butcher, sold out, and his shop had a kosher sign on it.

"Patience," said Dr. Barnett Bookstaver. "These people no more are civilized than the ones who fled." Teaneck remained a snooty community. If you earned $25,000 a year and had two cars and an English Tudor house on Red Road, you were in the swim. If you earned less, you lived up near the Teaneck Armory.

The convulsions of Teaneck went on. Fortunately, it always had something new to hate. The last group were the Negroes. They edged in on the northeast, near the Englewood line. Then a couple of Negro ballplayers bought property in the center of the white district. The real estate operators pressed the panic button. Jews began to sell. More Negroes came in.

The Negroes had money, position, affluence. They had their own hate: Harlem. Now we have a book that tells about the virtues and graces of Teaneck. "The first town in the nation to vote for integrated schools." Teaneck is gifted with a short memory.

Dr. Barnett Bookstaver had the patience. He saved himself for one great selfish act. St. Anastasia's wooden school caught fire. The old Jew was there before the fire department. He rescued the little ones and the nuns. When the job was done, he dropped dead on the sidewalk.

Stupid man. He loved everybody...

Drew Pearson Says Ambassador Bunker Optimistic About Outcome of Vietnam

SAIGON — Although the Viet Cong have brought the war to his very doorstep, Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker has continued to send President Johnson reassuring reports on the Vietnam outcome.

In one message to LBJ the quietly able ambassador, who has been a Presidential trouble-shooter all over the world, recalled his 1966 mission to the civil-war-torn Dominican Republic.

"I told you then if we sat tight, it would come out all right. Now I feel the same way about Vietnam."

Every night since the desperate Viet Cong attack on the American Embassy, Bunker has gone to sleep with the rattle of gunfire in his ears. More than once, the fighting has approached so close that he has been evacuated to a hideaway storm cellar.

He mischievously wrote his wife, the former Carol Laise, now U.S. ambassador to the Himalayan kingdom of Nepal, that the storm cellar was so cozy he would like to share it with her.

This same spirit is reflected in the reports he prepares each Wednesday for the White House. While none of the bad news is omitted, the overall view is optimistic.

Bunker has even expressed cautious confidence in South Vietnam's colorful President Nguyen Van Thieu, whom he has described to Washington as "unflappable" in a crisis. After a recent attack struck dangerously close to Thieu's home near the Tan Son Nhut airport, Ambassador Bunker urged the South Vietnamese leader to move to a safer place. Thieu shrugged off the advice. He had stayed up all night enjoying the fireworks, he replied, while his wife had slept in the living room.

The War in Washington

Bunker has also reported to Washington Thieu's view that the communists are now waging psychological warfare. Their objective, in Thieu's opinion, is to win the war in Washington even at the risk of losing it in Vietnam.

He cites the recent Tet offensive, for example, as a military defeat for the Viet Cong. They were driven out of the cities with heavy losses; Bunker's confidential dispatches repeat a total of 37,600 Viet Cong were killed in action.

President Thieu believes that Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, the North Vietnamese hero of the war against the French, will continue to seek psychological victories even at great military sacrifice. Thieu expects the Viet Cong to continue harassing South Vietnamese cities with attacks that will be more spectacular than effective. He also expects Giap to hurl manpower recklessly against the Marine bastion at Khe Sanh in a desperate attempt to overrun it.

As a general himself, President Thieu has studied Giap's tactics. He pointed out to Bunker that Giap had used precisely the same tactics in his successful campaign against the French. In battle after battle, including Dien Bien Phu, Giap sacrificed men in order to discourage Paris from continuing the war. Thieu thinks the North Vietnamese commander by this strategy now hopes to achieve the same results in Washington.

This column has glanced through some of Ambassador Bunker's private reports to the President. In sharp contrast with most of the news dispatches out of Vietnam, Bunker presents a picture of military stability and political progress.

He is even optimistic that President Thieu will adopt socio-economic reforms in time. Bunker has explained to Washington that Thieu is slowly laying the political groundwork.

The ambassador also has reported that the famous feud between President Thieu and Vice President Ky is more on the staff level than the personal. Bunker has advised them both to crack down on ambitious aides who, he claims, are stirring up trouble. In short, the views Bunker has been submitting to Washington disagree with what most correspondents have been writing.

Vietnam Vignettes

A 13-truck convoy, escorted by armed jeeps, rolled through the deserted streets of Saigon the other night after the 7 p.m. curfew. The heavily guarded cargo, according to labels on the packing crates, was Schlitz and Miller's beer. ... On two separate flights over Can Tho, the pilots pointed out to me some Esso storage tanks below. Fighting had raged around the Esso installation repeatedly, they said, yet the tanks miraculously had escaped damage. "The VC seems as interested in sparing the fuel as we are," remarked one pilot. ... This bears out the charge, printed in this column, that the oil companies have been paying off the Viet Cong not to attack their property. ... A U.S. intelligence officer told this column that the Catholic church was also paying protection money to the Viet Cong to spare church-owned property. ... After the curfew confines, correspondents to their quarters each night, they gather on the roof garden of the Caravelle hotel for a ringside view of the war. Night after night, the skyline bursts with fireballs as bombs and artillery find their targets. From gunships in the sky, showers of red tracer bullets are poured into Viet Cong positions. Hanging overhead like stars, lights are bright white flares at varying heights as they slowly descend. ... The front in this war is everywhere yet nowhere. The elusive enemy is seldom seen, yet he may strike any time anywhere. ... Correspondents are driven through Saigon with armed escorts. ... Huge signs in the air terminals begin, "In case of mortar attack, don't panic." ... Desk officers and clerks in the rear echelon wear sidearms or keep trusty M-16s alongside their typewriters.

VC Fade Out Safely After Terror Attacks on Cities

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)

One unusual aspect of the original Tet 45-city Viet Cong terrorist attacks in South Vietnam was the number of men involved in suicide missions.

Most VC-terrorist attacks are designed so that their skilled terrorist operatives will survive.

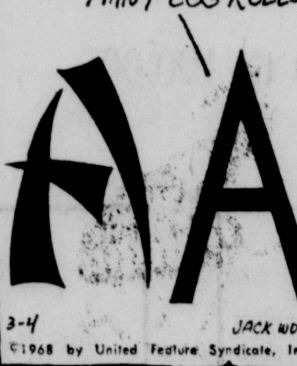

The setup, in fact, is usually such that most of those who do die in such attacks will be "expendable" local guerrillas or "unimportant" cooperating townspeople. (The VC term those people "unimportant" who are of little long-time use in meeting their objectives.)

In Vietnam a number of years ago, a former high ranking staff officer in Ho's operations told this reporter how terrorist forces usually get away after their attacks if things go off as planned.

The notes that follow are quotes taken from these 4-year-old private talks.

PIXIES by Wohl

ARNOLD, SOMETHING TELLS ME YOU'VE BEEN EATING TOO MANY EGG ROLLS.

3-4 JACK WOHLS
1968 by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

The action in this column begins at the time when the terrorist attack is completed and the terrorists are about to withdraw. But first a few preliminary words of background:

"Usually within the city, town or village, each co-operating household is assigned the task of taking care of five terrorists.

"If a terrorist is wounded he is taken to the assigned house for care until he can get away in safety. If he is killed, the householder is responsible for hiding his body and burying it in secret."

"The co-operating householder will usually be someone with relatives in the insurgency. He co-operates because of this relative, because of fear or because he has become one of our people. This household may supply food or medicine but usually these essentials have been brought in in small lots but the carriers and hidden in the co-operating households.

"Further, when goods, equipment, weapons, medicine and food are the objectives—or secondary objectives—of the terrorists attacks, local expendable co-operators will be assigned the task of carrying these away and hiding them until they are needed or until they can be carted away to a Viet Cong stockpile.

"Other co-operating households will carry resupplies of ammunition to any holed-up terrorists who have been surrounded in a section of a town and find it impossible to get away without fighting their way out. These carriers are expendable.

"When the immediate terrorist objective is completed

—unless it's a fight to the death—the terrorists turn their weapons over to the local guerrillas or co-operating city, town or village householders and fade away—as ordinary men. They drift out of town individually and on their own."

The techniques outlined above explain it is so difficult to prevent terrorists from attacking any city, town or hamlet they wish unless a way is found to penetrate their organization at many points. This penetration is possible.

McCormack Won't Quit

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—As far as most of his Democratic colleagues are concerned, Rep. John W. McCormack of Massachusetts can keep his post as speaker of the House as long as he wants—and as long as the Democrats retain control.

There have been suggestions that McCormack step down in favor of a younger man more closely in touch with modern times.

The speaker was, 76 years old last December but seems in excellent health. Aides claim he has missed only one work day in the last eight years, and that was to attend a school dedication in Boston.

Because he abhors facial makeup and lacks a ruddy complexion, McCormack doesn't always look too robust on the television screen.

Those close to him say he has no intention of yielding the gavel so long as he feels able to handle the job.

Several Have Been Suggested
Several speakers have died while in office; others have retired and some have sought other offices.

One, Joseph G. Cannon, Illinois Republican, was stripped of much of his authority in a revolt against his assumption of almost dictatorial powers. But he wasn't thrown out of his job.

McCormack's widespread popularity among his colleagues stems largely from his reluctance to say no to a legislative request from friends. He has scheduled and helped pass many pet bills of many members. He has the final say on what bills the House will consider.

He has helped obtain choice committee assignments for members and almost always is accessible when they have a problem to discuss.

There have been instances when House leaders have been deposed by their own party, but not when they held majority positions.

Republicans twice have ousted their leadership in the last nine years. In 1939, Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana replaced the veteran Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts as minority leader. And in 1965 Halleck was dumped in favor of Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, the current GOP leader.

This same spirit is reflected in the reports he prepares each Wednesday for the White House. While none of the bad news is omitted, the overall view is optimistic.

Bunker has even expressed cautious confidence in South Vietnam's colorless President Nguyen Van Thieu, whom he has described to Washington as "unflappable" in a crisis. After a recent attack struck dangerously close to Thieu's home near the Tan Son Nhut airfield, Ambassador Bunker urged the South Vietnamese leader to move to a safer place. Thieu shrugged off the advice. He had stayed up all night enjoying the fireworks, he replied, while his wife had slept in the living room.

The War in Washington
Bunker has also reported to Washington Thieu's view that the communists are now waging psychological warfare. Their objective, in Thieu's opinion, is to win the war in Washington even at the risk of losing it in Vietnam. He cites the recent Tet offensive, for example, as a military defeat for the Viet Cong. They were driven out of the cities with heavy losses; Bunker's confidential dispatches repeat a total of 37,600 Viet Cong were killed in action.

President Thieu believes that Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, the North Vietnamese hero of the war against the French, will continue to seek psychological victories even at great military sacrifice. Thieu expects the Viet Cong to continue harassing South Vietnam's cities with attacks that will be more spectacular than effective. He also expects Giap to hurl manpower recklessly against the Marine bastion at Khe Sanh in a desperate attempt to overrun it.

As a general himself, President Thieu has studied Giap's tactics. He pointed out to Bunker that Giap had used precisely the same tactics in his successful campaign against the French. In battle after battle, including Dien Bien Phu, Giap sacrificed men in order to discourage Paris from continuing the war. Thieu thinks the North Vietnamese commander by this strategy now hopes to achieve the same results in Washington.

This column has glanced through some of Ambassador Bunker's private reports to the President. In sharp contrast with most of the news dispatches out of Vietnam, Bunker presents a picture of military stability and political progress.

He is even optimistic that President Thieu will adopt socio-economic reforms in time. Bunker has explained to Washington that Thieu is slowly laying the political groundwork.

The ambassador also has reported that the famous feud between President Thieu and Vice President Ky is more on the staff level than the personal. Bunker has advised them both to crack down on ambitious aides who, he claims, are stirring up trouble. In short, the views Bunker has been submitting to Washington disagree with what most correspondents have been writing.

Vietnam Vignettes

A 13-truck convoy, escorted by armed jeeps, rolled through the deserted streets of Saigon the other night after the 7 p.m. curfew. The heavily guarded cargo, according to labels on the packing crates, was Schlitz and Miller's beer. ... On two separate flights over Can Tho, the pilots pointed out to me some Esso storage tanks below. Fighting had raged around the Esso installation repeatedly, they said, yet the tanks miraculously had escaped damage. The VC seems as interested in sparing the fuel as we are," remarked one pilot. ... This bears out the charge, printed in this column, that the oil companies, have been paying off the Viet Cong not to attack their property. ... A U.S. intelligence officer told this column that the Catholic church was also paying protection money to the Viet Cong to spare church-owned property. ... After the curfew confines correspondents to their quarters each night, they gather on the roof garden of the Caravelle hotel for a ringside view of the war. Night after night, the skyline bursts with fireballs as bombs and artillery find their targets. From gunships in the sky, showers of red tracer bullets are poured into Viet Cong positions. Hanging overhead like stage lights are bright white flares at varying heights as they slowly descend. ... The front in this war is everywhere yet nowhere. The elusive enemy is seldom seen, yet he may strike any time anywhere. ... Correspondents are driven through Saigon with armed escorts. ... Huge signs in the air terminals begin, "In case of mortal attack, don't panic." ... Desk officers and clerks in the rear echelons wear sidearms or keep trusty M-16s alongside their typewriters.

VC Fade Out Safely After Terror Attacks on Cities

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — One unusual aspect of the original Tet 45-city Viet Cong terrorist attacks in South Vietnam was the number of men involved in suicide missions.

Most "VC" terrorist attacks are designed so that their skilled terrorist operatives will survive.

The setup, in fact, is usually such that most of those who do die in such attacks will be "expendable" focal guerrillas or "unimportant" cooperating townspeople. (The "VC" term those people "unimportant" who are of little long-time use in meeting their objectives.)

In Vietnam, a number of years ago, a former high ranking staff officer in Ho's operations told this reporter how terrorist forces usually get away after their attacks if things go off as planned.

The notes that follow are quotes taken from these 4-year-old private talks.

The action in this column begins at the time when the terrorist attack is completed and the terrorists are about to withdraw. But first a few preliminary words of background:

"Usually within the city, town or village, each co-operating household is assigned the task of taking care of five terrorists.

"If a terrorist is wounded he is taken to the assigned house for care until he can get away in safety. If he is killed, the householder is responsible for hiding his body and burying it in secret.

"The co-operating householder will usually be someone with relatives in the insurgency. He co-operates because of fear or because he has become one of our people. This household may supply food or medicine but usually these essentials have been brought in in small lots but the carriers and hidden in the co-operating households.

"Further, when goods, equipment, weapons, medicine and food are the objectives—or secondary objectives—of the terrorists attacks, local expendable co-operators will be assigned the task of carrying these away and hiding them until they are needed or until they can be carted away to a Viet Cong stockpile.

"Other co-operating households will carry resupplies of ammunition to any holed-up terrorists who have been surrounded in a section of a town and find it impossible to get away without fighting their way out. These carriers are expendables.

"When the immediate terrorist objective is completed

—unless it's a fight to the death—the terrorists turn their weapons over to the local guerrillas or co-operating city, town or village householders and fade away—as ordinary men. They drift out of town individually and on their own.

The techniques outlined above explain it is so difficult to prevent terrorists from attacking any city, town or hamlet they wish unless a way is found to penetrate their organization at many points. This penetration is possible.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

A man named Reginald G. Damerell has written a book called "Triumph in a White Suburb" (Wm. Morrow). He has selected a small community in northern New Jersey — a town called Teaneck, for his case history. The lesson he draws is that white people face impending integration with hysteria and fear, and end by accepting it and living with it.

Most Teaneck citizens," he says, "are proud of the town's integration... But if ever a community proved that the so-called Negro problem is nothing so much as a white problem, it is Teaneck." He hangs the medal of good conduct on the town. It was the first in the nation to vote for integrated schools.

Will you permit me to go back a bit further in Teaneck reasearch? I moved there in 1939. The population was 15,000. There was a huge sign on Route Four which proclaimed "Teaneck is Restricted Community." The sign was aimed at the Jews rolling over the George Washington Bridge from The Bronx and Brooklyn.

Long before the town hated Negroes, it hated Jews. To prove that Jews were okay — in their place, of course — the town fathers appointed Dr. Barnett Bookstaver, a Jew, as health officer. They got him for peanuts. He was an old head when he was young. He used to warn me: "Patience."

Some of the tradesmen on Cedar Lane were Jewish. Most of them lived in Englewood or Hackensack. Secretly, some Jews bought a white house with a porch on Queen Anne Road and called it a Conservative synagogue. They got a rabbi from Georgia named Samul Geffen. We became friends because we were misfits. We used to debate in my house at high tea.

He had 30 people at Friday night services and five of them were part of a minyan. The word got out that the Jews were coming into Teaneck. We formed a group to help brotherhood in the town. In a short time, we found Jews who were anti-Semitic; we found that a bright attorney named Tommy Costa could not be made president of the board of education because his parents were Italian. It was a beautiful town. On a raised hand vote, the Jews decided against admitting any Negroes to our brotherhood organization.

The argument was: "How can I have my maid sitting with me at the meetings?" Dr. Barnett Bookstaver begged me to have "Patience. Please don't lecture them. Be twice as nice to them as they are to you, and all God's creatures will come together in time."

I told him God had had time: I didn't. Teaneck had an insufferable ego. The Saturday Evening Post had an article calling it a model community. The Catholics were another minority. The town voted not to send school buses to St. Anastasia School. Jews forced the real estate agents to sell property to them.

At once the word went out. The Christian exodus was on. Old Teaneck families moved to Saddle River and Ramsey.

The Jews bought. Soon, we had three synagogues. We had B'nai Brith, and Hadasah and the Sisterhood and the United Jewish Appeal. Finn, the Irish butcher, sold out and his shop had a kosher sign on it.

"Patience," said Dr. Barnett Bookstaver. "These people no are more civilized than the ones who fled. Teaneck remained a snooty community. If you earned $25,000 a year and had two cars and an English Tudor house on Red Road, you were in the swim. If you earned less, you lived up near the Teaneck Armory.

The convulsions of Teaneck went on. Fortunately, it always had something new to hate. The last group were the Negroes. They edged in on the northeast, near the Englewood line. Then a couple of Negro ballplayers bought property in the center of the white district. The real estate operators pressed the panic button. Jews began to sell. More Negroes came in.

The Negroes had money, position, affluence. They had their own hate: Harlem. Now we have a book that tells about the virtues and graces of Teaneck. "The first town in the nation to vote for integrated schools." Teaneck is gifted with a short memory.

Dr. Barnett Bookstaver had the patience. He saved himself for one great selfless act. St. Anastasia's wooden school caught fire. The old Jew was there before the fire department. He rescued the little ones and the nuns. When the job was done, he dropped dead on the sidewalk. Stupid man. He loved everybody...

McCormack Won't Quit

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — As far as most of his Democratic colleagues are concerned, Rep. John W. McCormack of Massachusetts can keep his post as speaker of the House as long as he wants — and as long as the Democrats retain control.

There have been suggestions that McCormack step down in favor of a younger man more closely in touch with modern times.

The speaker was 76 years old last December but seems in excellent health. Aides claim he has missed only one work day in the last eight years, and that was to attend a school dedication in Boston.

Because he abhors facial makeup and lacks a ruddy complexion, McCormack doesn't always look too robust on the television screen. Those close to him say he has no intention of yielding the gavel so long as he feels able to handle the job.

At the close of the 1964 session of Congress which enacted much of President Johnson's "Great Society" program, the President described McCormack as one of the outstanding speakers of all time.

If an attempt were to be made to unseat him, McCormack would have two big things in his favor—tradition and a widespread friendship among his colleagues.

Never in the history of Congress as far as is known, and certainly not in the last 100 years for which records are available, has an incumbent speaker been denied reelection when his political party remained in power and he remained a member of the House.

Several Died in Office
Several speakers have died while in office; others have retired and some have sought other offices.
One, Joseph G. Cannon, Illinois Republican, was stripped of much of his authority in a revolt against his assumption of almost dictatorial powers. But he wasn't thrown out of his job.

McCormack's widespread popularity among his colleagues stems largely from his reluctance to say no to a legislative request from friends. He has scheduled and helped pass many pet bills of many members. He has the final say on what bills the House will consider.

He has helped obtain choice committee assignments for members and almost always is accessible when they have a problem to discuss.

There have been instances when House leaders have been disposed by their own party, but not when they held majority positions. Republicans twice have ousted their leadership in the last nine years. In 1959, Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana replaced the veteran Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts as minority leader. And in 1965 Halleck was dumped in favor of Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, the current GOP leader.

'Pacification' Program In Vietnam Almost Dead

By RAYMOND R. COFFEY
Chicago Daily News Foreign Service

SAIGON, March 2 — For more than five years officials have been talking about, worrying about, despairing about something called the "pacification" program in Vietnam. Through all that time the name of the game and of the alphabet American agencies running it changed more often than anything else.

There was USOM, then USAID then OCO and now final CORDS — for Civilian Office of Revolutionary Development Support.

Pacification was the "other war," "nation building," the job of "winning the hearts and minds of the people" and it involved "strategic hamlets," then "new life hamlets," and "revolutionary development."

It was very important, everyone agreed, it cost a fortune, and there were endless official statistics to show how swimmingly well it was all going.

But now, in the wake of the communists' five-week-old country-wide offensive, the only thing left to be written about pacification is an epitaph:

Pacification is dead. Some U.S. officials think it can be resurrected. And perhaps it can, months from now, if the shooting war slows down again.

But others doubt that it's even worth trying, saying it would be better—once again—to review and rethink the whole business from scratch.

The measure of what happened to pacification can be seen against the statistics U.S. officials themselves were citing less than two months ago.

Robert W. Komer, the U.S. pacification chief who is referred to irreverently as "The Wizard of WHAM" (for Winning Hearts and Minds), claimed there were 11,500,000 (M) people living in secure areas and that 5,340 of South Vietnam's more than 12,000 hamlets were "relatively secure."

No Place Secure

As the Viet Cong attacks proved, however, there is no place in the country that can be considered secure.

U.S. officials also were taking comfort in such statistics as those showing that 216 doctors and 173 nurses were brought in to work in the provincial health assistance program, that more than 2,000 new school classrooms were built last year, and that more than 27,000 former Viet Cong had defected to the government in 1967.

But in the aftermath of the enemy attacks the medical people have more than 25,000 additional wounded civilians to care for, all the schools—new and old, are closed for the time being and the new university at Can Tho was destroyed in U.S. and Vietnamese counterattacks.

And the enemy, for all his defections, was still strong enough to mount the greatest offensive of the war.

The key element in the multi-faceted pacification effort is the revolutionary development cadre — teams of 59 men who go into a hamlet to establish government presence and improve the life of the people.

And the key to providing security for these teams is the 51 Vietnamese army battalions assigned to a pacification role.

Of the 535 R-D teams in hamlets before the attacks began only 278 are still there. The R-D cadres also had 79 men killed, 111 wounded and 845 report missing.

At least 18 of the 51 army battalions have been withdrawn from pacification and moved back to protect the larger cities, towns and government installations. In addition at least 10 police field companies were pulled out to work in the cities.

And the national police, an important element in the effort to root out Viet Cong cadres in the hamlets, suffered 447 killed, 758 wounded and 157 missing in the attacks.

In the country's two north-most provinces, Quang Tri and Thua Thien, U. S. officials concede that pacification will be at a standstill for at least two months.

In Binh Dinh province, one of the most populous, officials say pacification suffered a setback of at least 18 months.

Even the most determinedly optimistic U. S. official in Saigon conceded that the whole pacification program has suffered a "considerable setback."

Outlook Is Grim

According to this official the damage inflicted on the program is considered serious in 13 provinces, moderate in 16 and slight in 15.

The outlook for pacification in the months ahead is grim.

Government resources are already stretched thin, and it is plain that rebuilding the major towns and cities — and trying to protect them from future attacks — is going to get top priority.

This, as a top U. S. official acknowledges, results in a "vacuum" in the countryside where most of Vietnam's largely peasant population still lives.

What happens next, he said, "depends essentially on how fast the government reasserts its presence" in the countryside and "how fast the enemy moves into the vacuum."

So far, U. S. officials say, there is little evidence that the Viet Cong has moved into the vacuum.

But there is considerable feeling here that if the pressure on the cities continues, the countryside and the hamlets will, in effect, be abandoned to the Viet Cong.

Already, U. S. officials concede, it has become very doubtful that the government will be able to achieve its goal of "pacifying" another 1,480 hamlets in 1968.

In fact, one official said it is likely that the government will have to devote considerable effort to "reworking" hamlets that had previously been considered pacified but now have slid back under Viet Cong influence or control.

There is "no telling," he said, when the withdrawn army battalions will once again be available for pacification duty.

While the current enemy offensive doubtless had a devastating effect on pacification, it would be inaccurate to blame the whole situation on what has happened in the last five weeks.

The fact is that pacification was not going very well anyhow, despite the statistics. The Binh Dinh province along the coast was considered the showcase of the pacification program. For more than two years it was literally saturated with U.S. and allied troops, and everyone was pointing to it as an example of the way things should be done.

Command Wildly Corrupt

Then, to everyone's considerable embarrassment, it turned out that practically the whole government command in the province was wildly corrupt. The province chief was sentenced to death (though the sentence was never carried out) for embezzlement.

A flock of his subordinates were sentenced to prison. Likewise in Gia Dinh Province surrounding Saigon, a U.S. Army Brigade spent a whole year chasing and killing the Viet Cong units in the province and then turned the pacification effort over to the Vietnamese.

Government forces outnumbered the remaining enemy guerrillas by 15-to-1, but U.S. officials complain that the situation in the province still deteriorated rapidly — and simply because the Vietnamese would not take the job seriously.

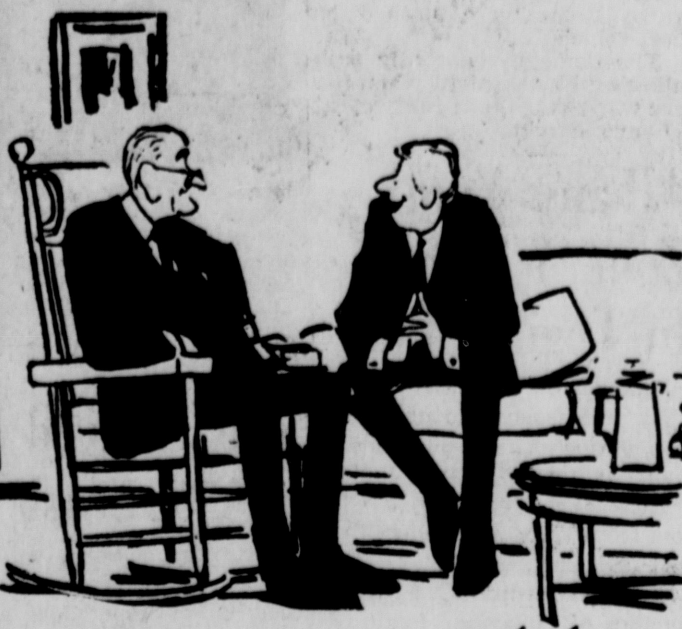

On young U.S. pacification official, whose job involved seeing reports on the R-D pacification teams throughout the populous Mekong Delta says the teams are "fairly well motivated when they first come out of training at Vung Tau and go into a hamlet."

"But as soon as they hit the system — when they see the province chief and the district chiefs couldn't care less — when they see the corruption all around them, their morale soon deteriorates" and so does their performance.

"I've seen pacified areas slipping away (from the government) by default," he said, "just because the government is ignoring them."

BERRY'S WORLD

"Do you think we could interest Howard Hughes in buying North Vietnam?"

All Reds Condemn U.S. Role

By DONALD SHANOR

BUDAPEST, Feb. 28 —

With all the political finesse of a ward boss, American communist leader Gus Hall gave the press its first report of the secret deliberations of the world communist meeting.

Hall stressed the positive and minimized the negative in his press conference yesterday on the second day of the 67-nation talks.

The positive, in his view, was that all had agreed on a resolution condemning the U. S. role in Vietnam.

The negative is that there is no sign that the real purpose of the conference, restoring the communist movement's shattered unity, has made any progress at all.

Hall said he was confident the current meeting would lead to a communist summit, perhaps next fall, with most parties of the world movement there.

Fourteen of those parties, headed by the world's second most powerful, Red China, are boycotting these talks.

The Romanian party, which came here only reluctantly, was reported pressing for genuine discussion of the split, including the complex issue of countries where two communist parties, one loyal to Moscow and one to Peking, have arisen.

Hall skirted this issue and others relating to the split. Instead, he stressed what has been agreed on: —Special greetings to the Vietnamese people, and a call for a Vietnam policy that would save the United States from the folly of its leaders.

—Creation of an unwieldy secretariat of all 67 parties to steer the meeting's business, while the 67 delegations deliver their policy speeches. The conference is expected to last seven to 10 days.

—Preparations for the communist summit perhaps including yet another short preparatory meeting between now and next fall.

Hall, a burly, graying man, parried questions about Peking's boycott with the ease of a public relations consultant.

He dismissed the deep-seated differences in the movement as inner family discussion. He said he hoped other delegations — presumably the Soviet — also would meet the press, but warned that, "We can't let the pressure of the mass media mold the conference."

No amount of public relations skill can cover up the trend that has begun to emerge from the conference: Unhappily to heal the split, the communist leaders are emphasizing the one subject on which they all can agree.

But no one can pretend it was necessary to bring 67 delegations here simply to do what they have already been doing — condemning the United States for its Vietnam war.

'Pacification' Program In Vietnam Almost Dead

So far, U. S. officials say, there is little evidence that the Viet Cong has moved into the vacuum.

But there is considerable feeling here that if the pressure on the cities continues, the country side and the hamlets will, in effect, be abandoned to the Viet Cong.

Already, U. S. officials concede, it has become very doubtful that the government will be able to achieve its goal of "pacifying" another 1,400 hamlets in 1968.

In fact, one official said it is likely that the government will have to devote considerable effort to "reworking" hamlets that had previously been considered pacified but now have slid back under Viet Cong influence or control.

There is "no telling," he said, when the withdrawn army battalions will once again be available for pacification duty.

While the current enemy offensive doubtless had a devastating effect on pacification, it would be inaccurate to blame the whole situation on what has happened in the last five weeks.

The fact is that pacification was not going very well anyhow, despite the statistics.

The Binh Dinh province along the coast was considered the showcase of the pacification program. For more than two years it was literally saturated with U.S. and allied troops, and everyone was pointing to it as an example of the way things should be done.

Command Wildly Corrupt

Then, to everyone's considerable embarrassment, it turned out that practically the whole government command in the province was wildly corrupt. The province chief was sentenced to death (though the sentence was never carried out) for embezzlement.

A flock of his subordinates were sentenced to prison. Likewise in Gia Dinh Province surrounding Saigon, a U.S. Army Brigade spent a whole year chasing and killing the Viet Cong units in the province and then turned the pacification effort over to the Vietnamese.

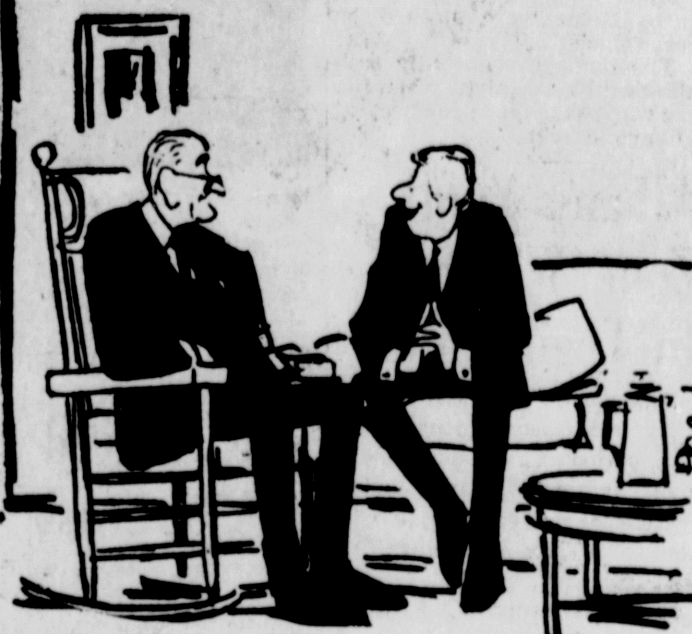

Government forces outnumbered the remaining enemy guerrillas by 15-to-1, but U.S. officials complain that the situation in the province still deteriorated rapidly — and simply because the Vietnamese would not take the job seriously.

On young U.S. pacification officials, whose job involved seeing reports on the R-D pacification teams throughout the populous Mekong Delta says the teams are "fairly well motivated when they first come out" of training at Vung Tau and go into a hamlet.

"But as soon as they hit the system — when they see the province chief and the district chiefs couldn't care less — when they see the corruption all around them, their morale soon deteriorates" and so does their performance.

"I've seen pacified areas slipping away (from the government) by default," he said, "just because the government is ignoring them."

BERRY'S WORLD

"Do you think we could interest Howard Hughes in buying North Vietnam?"

All Reds Condemn U.S. Role

By DONALD SHANOR

BUDAPEST, Feb. 28 —

With all the political finesse of a ward boss, American communist leader Gus Hall gave the press its first report of the secret deliberations of the world communist meeting.

Hall stressed the positive and minimized the negative in his press conference yesterday on the second day of the 67-nation talks.

The positive, in his view, was that all had agreed on a resolution condemning the U. S. role in Vietnam.

The negative is that there is no sign that the real purpose of the conference, restoring the communist movement's shattered unity, has made any progress at all.

Hall said he was confident the current meeting would lead to a communist summit, perhaps next fall, with most parties of the world movement there.

Fourteen of those parties, headed by the world's second most powerful, Red China, are boycotting these talks.

The Romanian party, which came here only reluctantly, was reported pressing for genuine discussion of the split, including the complex issue of countries where two communist parties, one loyal to Moscow and one to Peking, have arisen.

Hall skirted this issue and others relating to the split. Instead, he stressed what has been agreed on:

—Special greetings to the

Vietnamese people, and a call for a Vietnam policy that would save the United States from the folly of its leaders.

Creation of an unwieldy secretariat of all 67 parties to steer the meeting's business while the 67 delegations deliver their policy speeches. The conference is expected to last seven to 10 days.

—Preparations for the communist summit perhaps including yet another short preparatory meeting between now and next fall.

Hall, a burly, graying man, parried questions about Peking's boycott with the ease of a public relations consultant. He dismissed the deep-seated differences in the movement as inner family discussion. He said he hoped other delegations — presumably the Soviet — also would meet the press, but warned that, "We can't let the pressure of the mass media mold the conference."

No amount of public relations skill can cover up the trend that has begun to emerge from the conference: Unhappily to heal the split, the communist leaders are emphasizing the one subject on which they all can agree.

But no one can pretend it was necessary to bring 67 delegations here simply to do what they have already been doing — condemning the United States for its Vietnam war.

Robinson Son Bagged For Drugs

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP) — Jack R. Robinson Jr., the 21-year-old son of the former major league baseball star, was arrested early today on a charge of possession of narcotics.

Robinson was picked up near the entrance of a hotel. Police said they found on his possession several glassine bags containing heroin and a pouch-like object which field tests disclosed contained marijuana.

Detective Anthony Aguirre, working out of the narcotics division, became suspicious when he saw young Robinson walking near the entrance to the hotel, police said.

He called to the youth, police said, but Robinson started to run. Aguirre and Patrolman John Ferrante gave chase and arrested the youth as he reached nearby South Street.

Capt. Thomas O'Connor said substances identified as heroin and marijuana were found on the youth, and that samples were sent to the state police laboratories in Hartford for confirmation.

Also found on Robinson, police said, was an Italian-made .22 caliber revolver.

In addition to the possession of narcotics charge, Robinson was booked on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon.

The youth was held in lieu of $10,000 bond pending a preliminary Circuit Court arraignment later today.

The elder Robinson was a star on the old Brooklyn Dodgers baseball team and currently is an advisor on civil rights to New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

The Robinson home is at 103 Cascade Road, Stamford.

Two Arrested by Police For Sunday Stabbing

A fight in front of Pete's Bar and Grill on Broadway early Sunday morning resulted in the stabbing of a Kingston man and the jailing of his two alleged assailants.

According to police reports, Rosendale-Tillson G. W. Eris Phone: OL 8-9850

Peter Thomas, 22, of 116 O'Neil Street, got into an argument with Jose Roque, 23, of 55 North Front Street, and Juan Gonzales, 19, of Franklin Street.

The arguments apparently started in the bar, located at 349 1/2 Broadway, and continued out into the street.

Reportedly, Roque stabbed Thomas while Gonzales also stood by with a "deadly weapon."

Thomas was taken to the Kingston Hospital emergency ward where he was treated and released.

Roque was charged with two counts of assault in the second degree with "intent to cause serious physical injury by means of a deadly weapon" to his victim.

He was arraigned before City Judge Huber, Richter who set bail at $10,000.

Roque was remanded to the Ulster County jail in lieu of the bail money. His hearing will take place on March 6 and he is represented by attorney John Lynch.

Gonzales was charged with menacing. No bail was set and he is also in the Ulster County jail awaiting his hearing on March 6.

Robinson Son Bagged For Drugs

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP) — Jack R. Robinson Jr., the 21-year-old son of the former major league baseball star, was arrested early today on a charge of possession of narcotics.

Robinson was picked up near the entrance of a hotel. Police said they found on his person several glassine bags containing heroin and a pouch-like object which field tests disclosed contained marijuana.

Detective Anthony Aguire, working out of the narcotics division, became suspicious when he saw young Robinson walking near the entrance to the hotel, police said.

He called to the youth, police said, but Robinson started to run. Aguire and Patrolman John Fugante gave chase and arrested the youth as he reached nearby South Street.

Capt. Thomas O'Connor said substances identified as heroin and marijuana were found on the youth, and that samples were sent to the state police laboratories in Hartford for confirmation.

Also found on Robinson, police said, was an Italian-made .22 caliber revolver.

In addition to the possession of narcotics charge, Robinson was booked on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon.

The youth was held in lieu of $10,000 bond pending a preliminary Circuit Court arraignment later today.

The elder Robinson was a star on the old Brooklyn Dodgers baseball team and currently is an advisor on civil rights to New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

The Robinson home is at 103 Cascade Road, Stamford.

Successful Investing....

by ROGER E. SPEAR
Investment Advisor & Analyst

Don't Stay With
Slow Stock Too Long

Q—I have had A&P stock for about 10 years. I bought at 45 and have a big loss. What are the prospects for a brighter future for this stock?—M. M.

A—I wish I could give you some encouragement, but I cannot. Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea is a fine company, and the stock is a good holding for income, but growth has been lacking. Net per share has stayed around the same level for many years, and earnings for 1967 were probably below those of 10 years ago.

There is such a thing as holding a stock too long, and in this case I believe you've done it. The price trend has been unsatisfactory for many years, and I can see nothing in the future to improve it. The food chains are caught in a cost-price squeeze, and competition has intensified. Unless you need the relatively high yield (about 6 per cent), I think you have held the shares long enough. I advise you to switch to Stewart-Warner which has had a good growth trend and has almost doubled in price in the past decade.

Q—My husband is about to retire. We feel we can get by with his pension and Social Security, plus the investments listed herein. Should we make any changes?—F. M.

A—I am glad to say that you seem to be very well situated from an investment standpoint. I do not consider that you are top-heavy in utilities—with four of these utilities, including American Telephone. All of your stocks are good and some—including Telephone, American Hospital Supply and Northern Indiana Public Service—are above average in quality. I advise no change in your list. Most of your stocks are income issues, with the exception of American Hospital Supply which yields little but which has had an unusually good growth and price record and should be held if you can afford a low current return.

History Master Named at New Ulster Academy

RICHARD GAVITT

Richard E. Gavitt of The Gunnery School, Washington, Conn., has been appointed to the faculty of Ulster Academy as master of history and of music. Headmaster Raymond A. Nelson announced today.

Gavitt is the second faculty member named for the area's new independent coeducational secondary school, which opens in September. He will teach English and European history; teach music in the arts program of the Academy's Humanities curriculum; and develop a contemporary audio-visual program for all subject areas. He has taught at the Hotchkiss School and Cheshire Academy in Connecticut and at St. Mark's School, Dallas, Tex.

At the Gunnery, he is a teacher in the history department, director of the music department and director of the audio-visual department. He holds a BA from Gustavus Adolphus College and a BD and master's degree in history from Yale University, where he studied under Dr. Roland H. Bainton, distinguished historian of the Continental Reformation. He studied at the University of Tübingen on a World Council of Churches fellowship.

Gavitt studied music at Texas Christian University and the Julius Hart College of Music, Hartford, Conn. He is the founder-director of the annual Independent Schools Concert held at Yale for secondary-school glee clubs. He recently directed the Gunnery's production of "Brigadoon," presented jointly with the Wickham-Rise School for Girls. In addition to his work with vocal music and piano, Gavitt plays guitar and has a lively interest in folk music.

The 40-year-old teacher, who served with the U.S. Navy for two years, will move to Kingston this summer. Ulster Academy is now accepting applications for admission. The school's catalogue and admissions information is available at the office, 17 Pearl Street. The next admissions test is set for March 30. Ulster Academy will offer grades seven through 10 in the 1968-9 academic year.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK AP)—The stock market slipped irregularly lower early Monday as the major exchanges returned to full trading days after six weeks of shortened sessions. Trading was fairly active.

Gold mining shares continued strong, reflecting continued strength for gold shares in European markets.

McIntyre Porcupine advanced more than a point and Benguet a fraction. Some gold mining shares were delayed in opening.

Copper stocks also were higher. Kennecott and Phelps Dodge rose about 2 each, Anaconda and American Smelting about a point.

Pressure continued on the computer, conglomerate and other glamour stocks. Control Data, Burroughs and Raytheon were off about 2 each.

Down a point or so were Uniroyal, Sperry Rand, Polaroid and Merck.

The return to negotiations aimed at ending the long copper strike was bullish for copper stocks, analysts said.

Weakness in the English pound and rumors of a possible change in the U.S. policy in gold brought renewed buying to gold mine stocks.

Successful Investing....

by ROGER E. SPEAR
Investment Adviser & Analyst
Don't Stay With
Slow Stock Too Long

Q—I have had A&P stock for about 10 years. I bought at 45 and have a big loss. What are the prospects for a brighter future for this stock?—M. M.

A—I wish I could give you some encouragement, but I cannot. Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea is a fine company, and the stock is a good holding for income, but growth has been lacking. Net per share has stayed around the same level for many years, and earnings for 1967 were probably below those of 10 years ago.

There is such a thing as holding a stock too long, and in this case I believe you've done it. The price trend has been unsatisfactory for many years, and I can see nothing in the future to improve it. The food chains are caught in a cost-price squeeze, and competition has intensified. Unless you need the relatively high yield (about 6 per cent), I think you have held the shares long enough. I advise you to switch to Stewart Warner which has had a good growth trend and has almost doubled in price in the past decade.

Q—My husband is about to retire. We feel we can get by with his pension and Social Security, plus the investments listed herein. Should we make any changes? Are we too heavy in utilities?—F.M.

A—I am glad to say that you seem to be very well situated from an investment standpoint. I do not consider that you are too-heavy in utilities—with four of these issues, including American Telephone. All of your stocks are good and some—including Telephone, American Hospital Supply and Northern Indiana Public Service—are above average in quality. I advise no change in your list. Most of your stocks are income issues, with the exception of American Hospital Supply which yields little but which has had an unusually good growth and price record and should be held if you can afford a low current return.

The school's catalogue and admissions information is available at the office, 17 Pearl Street. The next admissions test is set for March 30. Ulster Academy will offer grades seven through 10 in the 1968-9 academic year.

Garage Lost In Rosendale Town Fire

A Maple Hill garage, completely engulfed in flames when firemen arrived at 6:39 last night, was declared a total loss by Bloomington Fire Chief Herbert Faurote this morning.

The fire also claimed the contents of a nearby barn and was instrumental in cracking the windows of an adjoining house. The barn contained old furniture, books and papers, according to Faurote.

The house, located off Rte. 32, was threatened for a time but firemen from several companies were able to save it and the barn, despite being hampered by high winds.

The garage and house were located on the property of Joyce Beil. The nearby barn is located on the Hiltbrand property, Faurote said.

The fire, which started in the garage was of undetermined origin. In addition to the Bloomington Fire Company, Tilton, Cottetill and Binnewater responded. Rosendales Company was on stand-by.

Firemen returned at 9:30. Chief Faurote was assisted by Joseph Hafner and Oscar Hahn.

Athens Crash Injures Three

Three Greene County residents were injured at 9:55 p. m. Sunday in a traffic accident on Route 9W in the Town of Athens. They were passengers in a car driven by Susan Gabriel, 19, of Catskill, according to Leeds State Police.

The woman was treated at Greene County Memorial Hospital for multiple lacerations, contusions and abrasions of the face. Others injured and taken to the hospital were Daniel Pole, 17, of Catskill, lacerations of the scalp and chin and cerebral concussion, and Michael Gabriel, 16, multiple lacerations of the face and scalp.

Other cars involved in the mishap, troopers reported, were operated by George Feth of Cossack, and Eugene Albright of Hannacrois. They apparently were not injured.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market slipped irregularly lower early Monday as the major exchanges returned to full trading days after six weeks of shortened sessions. Trading was fairly active.

Gold mining shares continued strong, reflecting continued strength for gold shares in European markets.

McIntyre Porcupine advanced more than a point and Benguet a fraction. Some gold mining shares were delayed in opening.

Copper stocks also were higher. Kennecott and Phelps Dodge rose about 2 each. Anaconda and American Smelting about a point.

Pressure continued on the computer, conglomerate and other glamor stocks. Control Data, Burroughs and Raytheon were off about 2 each.

Down a point or so were Uniroyal, Sperry Rand, Polaroid and Merck.

The return to negotiations aimed at ending the long copper strike was bullish for copper stocks, analysts said.

Weakness in the English pound and rumors of a possible change in the U.S. policy in gold brought renewed buying to gold mine stocks.

Fate of Rights Measure May Hinge on Senate Try

By JOHN CHADWICK
WASHINGTON (AP) — The fate of the administration's civil rights bill—with its controversial open-housing provision—may hinge on a fourth bid to end a 7-week-old Senate debate.

A vote on the debate-ending move to invoke cloture was set for today. It would require a two-thirds majority of those voting to pass.

In the wake of Friday's defeat of a third attempt to invoke cloture and thus end the debate, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said of today's scheduled ballot showdown:

"I have an idea this is the go-for-broke vote on cloture."

A weekend report by the President's Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders, calling for passage of legislation banning discrimination in the sale or rental of any U.S. housing, lent added significance to the Senate action.

Despite Mansfield's warning he might move to put the legislation aside if cloture once more is rejected, backers of the civil rights measure expressed hope it might be kept alive.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., floor manager of the bill, said: "If we continue to pick up strength, I'd hope the Senate would not be asked to put aside a bill of such critical importance."

The Senate voted 59 to 35 Friday for cutting off the debate,

Claim Viet Cops Thwart Inquiry

SAIGON (AP) — American security officials trying to learn if there are still Viet Cong on the U.S. Embassy payroll are being thwarted by the South Vietnamese police, informed sources said today.

The sources said the National Police had refused to let the Americans talk at length with two of the Viet Cong who participated in the attack on the Embassy last Jan. 31 and with eight other Viet Cong arrested in Saigon who might have had some connection with the attack.

The fact that any of the squad that attacked the embassy survived has been a closely guarded secret for more than a month. After the attack, it was announced officially that all were killed.

U.S. security officials did talk briefly with Nguyen Van Sau, the leader of the Viet Cong squad which invaded the embassy compound, and that talk led police to a house where the Viet Cong had assembled for the attack.

At the house, police arrested a woman who said 15 armed Viet Cong had stayed there the night before the attack. Viet Cong documents found in the garage of the house identified the place as the hiding place of the embassy attack squad.

The sources said the Viet Cong apparently were driven to the house by Nguyen Van De, a U.S. Embassy chauffeur. De was killed during the battle at the embassy.

Two days before the attack, the sources reported, "De brought a friend to sleep at the embassy motor pool, telling other drivers that the man was a friend who was applying for a driver's job at the embassy. The friend was a member of the Viet Cong attack squad, Ngo Van Giang, who was the second man arrested during the battle for the embassy, the sources said. Giang slept one night inside the embassy compound and during the second night apparently helped prepare the way for the attack."

Later on the day of the attack the national police arrested sev-

NATO Aids Civilian Studies In Science

By CARL HARTMAN
BRUSSELS (AP) — You might not expect to find the Atlantic Alliance fostering scientific investigation of why some girls have hairy legs or how eels migrate from the Sargasso Sea.

But the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) has helped these and hundreds of other civilian projects over the past decade, in one of the world's largest international programs.

NATO's Science Committee has $4.3 million to spend this year. Some of its work has a military side; some does not. One of its objects is "to increase common understanding and to forge bonds between the scientific communities in the different countries."

The study on eels is part of a plan for exploring the ocean, which is of great interest to the NATO navies. The study that threw some light on leg hair was conducted on a grant to Prof. Carlo Conti of the University of Rome. It showed that the hair has something to do with the hormones in the outer layer of skin.

There is no ideological prejudice: The universities of Cracow in Poland and Belgrade in Yugoslavia, both Communist-ruled countries, cooperated on a study of cosmic rays with universities in NATO countries. Scientists from Eastern Europe are occasionally seen at NATO technical conferences.

On the strictly military side, a technical center in Holland investigates air, land and sea weapons, offensive and defensive. That costs as much as the Science Committee spends on all its projects put together. Another military center, in Italy, works on warding off submarines. A third studies aerodynamics, which like so many branches of science has both military and civilian applications.

Sheen Changes Mind Over Gift of Church

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — appearances have brought him nationwide recognition, started this city last Wednesday in announcing he was giving the church and its property to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

He stipulated only that the 1½-acre, $680,000 site was to be used to build housing for the poor.

Besides the church, the site includes an elementary school, a rectory and a convent.

Department officials, led by Secretary Robert C. Weaver, accepted the offer enthusiastically.

Parishioners and others here reacted differently. They made more than 100 telephone calls to the church Thursday decrying the bishop's action. The next day, six college girls picketed the diocesan headquarters.

Bishop Sheen has not commented publicly since his original announcement of the gift. He celebrated Mass Sunday at Sacred Heart Cathedral but made no comment on the controversy. Later, he turned back reporters' questions.

Bishop Fulton J. Sheen, who donated a slum-area Roman Catholic church to the federal government last week as a symbol of concern for the poor, has changed his mind about the gift, the church's pastor says.

The Rev. Francis H. Vogt made the disclosure Sunday to his parishioners at St. Bridget's Church, a 98-year-old structure in a section of Rochester's inner city where Negroes and Puerto Ricans predominate.

"I am happy to announce that St. Bridget's will not be given away and will continue to serve the people living in the shadow of its tower," Father Vogt said from the pulpit.

Later, the priest told a reporter he learned of the reversal from the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Charles Boyle, pastor of another church here and leader of a group of 22 priests who signed a statement critical of Bishop Sheen's donation of St. Bridget's without first consulting the clergymen involved.

Fate of Rights Measure May Hinge on Senate Try

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fate of the administration's civil rights bill—with its controversial open-housing provision—may hinge on a fourth bid to end a 7-week-old Senate debate.

A vote on the debate-ending move to invoke cloture was set for today. It would require a two-thirds majority of those voting to pass.

In the wake of Friday's defeat of a third attempt to invoke cloture and thus end the debate, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said of today's scheduled ballot showdown:

"I have an idea this is the go-for-broke vote on cloture."

A weekend report by the President's Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders, calling for passage of legislation banning discrimination in the sale or rental of any U.S. housing, lent added significance to the Senate action.

Despite Mansfield's warning he might move to put the legislation aside if cloture once more is rejected, backers of the civil rights measure expressed hope it might be kept alive.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., floor manager of the bill, said: "If we continue to pick up strength, I'd hope the Senate would not be asked to put aside a bill of such critical importance."

The Senate voted 59 to 35 Friday for cutting off the debate, leaving the bill's supporters 4 votes short of the margin necessary to force action.

First Failed by Seven

A first cloture vote failed by 7 votes and a second by 6.

But it was Friday's vote that was a jolting upset. It came after Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen dropped his opposition and offered the compromise bill worked out with a bipartisan civil rights loc.

Dirksen's sponsorship of the compromise, introduced last Wednesday, failed to pick up as many Republican votes for cloture as he and others had expected.

The original open-housing proposal, offered by Sens. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., and Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., would have banned discrimination in the sale or rental of an estimated 97 per cent of the nation's housing.

The compromise cut back the coverage to about 70 per cent of the housing units, but opponents contend any open-housing legislation is an unconstitutional invasion of private property rights.

Mansfield indicated he feels the Senate, embroiled in the civil rights fight since mid-January, has spent about as much time as it can on one bill.

He said that so far as he knows the Senate has never before taken four cloture votes on any legislation.

Claim Viet Cops Thwart Inquiry

SAIGON (AP) — American security officials trying to learn if there are still Viet Cong on the U.S. Embassy payroll are being thwarted by the South Vietnamese police, informed sources said today.

The sources said the National Police had refused to let the Americans talk at length with two of the Viet Cong who participated in the attack on the Embassy last Jan. 31 and with eight other Viet Cong arrested in Saigon who might have had some connection with the attack.

The fact that any of the squad that attacked the embassy survived has been a closely guarded secret for more than a month. After the attack, it was announced officially that all were killed.

U.S. security officials did talk briefly with Nguyen Van Sau, the leader of the Viet Cong squad which invaded the embassy compound, and that talk led police to a house where the Viet Cong had assembled for the attack.

At the house, police arrested a woman who said 15 armed Viet Cong had stayed there the night before the attack. Viet Cong documents found in the garage of the house identified the place as the hiding place of the embassy attack squad.

The sources said the Viet Cong apparently were driven to the house by Nguyen Van De, a U.S. Embassy chauffeur. De was killed during the battle at the embassy.

Two days before the attack, the sources reported, De brought a friend to sleep at the embassy motor pool, telling other drivers that the man was a friend who was applying for a driver's job at the embassy. The friend was a member of the Viet Cong attack squad, Ngo Van Giang, who was the second man arrested during the battle for the embassy, the sources said.

Giang slept one night inside the embassy compound and during the second night apparently helped prepare the way for the attack.

NATO Aids Civilian Studies In Science

By CARL HARTMAN

BRUSSELS (AP) — You might not expect to find the Atlantic Alliance fostering scientific investigation of why some girls have hairy legs or how eels migrate from the Sargasso Sea.

But the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) has helped these and hundreds of other civilian projects over the past decade, in one of the world's largest international programs.

NATO's Science Committee has $4.3 million to spend this year. Some of its work has a military side; some does not. One of its objects is "to increase common understanding and to forge bonds between the scientific communities in the different countries."

The study on eels is part of a plan for exploring the ocean, which is of great interest to the NATO navies. The study that threw some light on leg hair was conducted on a grant to Prof. Carlo Conti of the University of Rome. It showed that the hair has something to do with the hormones in the outer layer of skin.

There is no ideological prejudice: The universities of Cracow in Poland and Belgrade in Yugoslavia, both Communist-ruled countries, cooperated on a study of cosmic rays with universities in NATO countries. Scientists from Eastern Europe are occasionally seen at NATO technical conferences.

On the strictly military side, a technical center in Holland investigates air, land and sea weapons, offensive and defensive. That costs as much as the Science Committee spends on all its projects put together. Another military center, in Italy, works on warding off submarines. A third studies aerodynamics, which like so many branches of science has both military and civilian applications.

So does the oceanography program, under the direction of Prof. Andre Capart, head of Belgium's Royal Institute of Natural Sciences.

It is mapping currents and underwater features of the Mediterranean Sea. The Mediterranean is worrying NATO more and more because the Soviet fleet there is growing.

Capart says the cooperation of NATO countries in oceanography brings much more important results than countries could obtain separately.

"Currents don't stand still," he explains. "You find out more about them when you have seven ships working together at the same time, the way we do."

France is active in this work, despite Charles de Gaulle's coolness to NATO. Sometimes France supplies two research ships where other countries supply only one each. The French also work hard on developing NATO's radar defenses, a job run by a French general.

The oceanographic work produces some incidental discoveries and inventions of value in themselves.

Capart is convinced, for example, that ships using the Mediterranean can save large amounts of time and money by taking advantage of the currents he has mapped. Shoals of fish were detected off Sardinia and southern Spain which could be commercially exploited.

Studies of how the currents flow furnished valuable information on where oil refineries should be located to minimize water pollution.

Tracing the eel migration brought a new method of photographing eel larvae—a tricky business since the larvae are mostly transparent. It's done with infrared rays.

Research money is granted for projects in all the branches of science. One project studied how stars are formed. Another collected 50,000 scorpions to examine their venom. A third went into the love life of dolphins.

A French and a Danish scientist observed that the female dolphin takes the initiative in courtship and that at least some dolphins have homosexual tendencies.

Science Shrinks Painful Hemorrhoids Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

Finds Way That Both Relieves Pain and Shrinks Piles in Most Cases

New York, N.Y. (Special): Science has found a special formula with the ability, in most cases—to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching and relieve pain. In case after case doctors proved, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. The secret is Preparation H. There is no other formula for hemorrhoids like it. Preparation H also soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.

Michigan State Schedules Local Family Survey

ANN ARBOR—Nearly 5,000 families across the country, including Ulster County, will be interviewed during the next few months in a Survey of Family Economics to be conducted by The University of Michigan's Survey Research Center.

The interviews will be part of a study of the ways families react to changing economic opportunities and adjust to economic conditions. Interviews in Ulster County will be conducted by Mrs. Walter S. Herring of Ulster Park. Persons interviewed will be asked about their time on the job and work done around the home. Information is being sought on overtime work and extra jobs, home do-it-yourself projects, ways of stretching the family budget, family leisure time.

Families to be interviewed are scientifically chosen to give a sample which is representative of the entire U.S. population. Interviews are scheduled to be conducted in 36 states. Included will be the 12 largest metropolitan areas of the country, in addition to dozens of smaller cities, towns and rural areas. Findings of the study will aid in the understanding of economic opportunities available to different groups of people in the country.

No information about individual interview results are never made public.

Finds Way That Both Relieves Pain and Shrinks Piles In Most Cases

New York, N.Y. (Special): Science has found a special formula with the ability, in most cases—to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching and relieve pain.
In case after case doctors proved, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. The secret is Preparation H®. There is no other formula for hemorrhoids like it. Preparation H also soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.

Michigan State Schedules Local Family Survey

ANN ARBOR — Nearly 5,000 families across the country, including Ulster County, will be interviewed during the next few months in a Survey of Family Economics to be conducted by The University of Michigan's Survey Research Center.
The interviews will be part of a study of the ways families react to changing economic opportunities and adjust to economic conditions.
Interviews in Ulster County will be conducted by Mrs. Walter S. Herring of Ulster Park. Persons interviewed will be asked about their time on the job and work done around the home. Information is being sought on overtime work and extra jobs, home do-it-yourself projects, ways of stretching the family budget, family budget, family activities, and use of leisure time.

House Group Cites Viet Cong Rural Gains

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House committee says the Viet Cong are gaining a grip on the loyalties of rural South Vietnamese by bringing about land reforms the Saigon government is unwilling to institute.

The House Government Operations Subcommittee said U.S. pressure is necessary to bring about meaningful land reform.

Without such reform, said the committee, it's questionable whether American support for the war should continue.

The report, formulated last October but released only Sunday, included a sharp dissent from two committee members.

Reps. John S. Monagan, D-Conn., and L. H. Fountain, D-N.C., said the panel's majority "falls entirely to place its findings and recommendations in the proper context of a South Vietnam shattered and buffeted by war."

The dissenting members said land reform is not the burning issue pictured by the report.

Rep. Porter W. Hardy Jr., D-Va., also objected to the report and challenged the panel's au-

Authority to issue it. He argued such policy matters are within the jurisdiction of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

The delay in publishing the report was caused by a jurisdictional dispute between the two committees.

Rep. Ogden R. Reid of New York, ranking Republican on the operations panel headed by Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., said the United States must pressure the Saigon government to institute sweeping social and economic reforms.

"Unless this is recognized at the highest levels in Washington and Saigon," said Reid, "a viable South Vietnamese government, enjoying support from the countryside, will become an extremely remote possibility, and our efforts and sacrifices in that country increasingly futile."

The report said most South Vietnamese farmers have an enduring interest in owning land, but instead are forced to give over as much as 50 per cent of their crop in rents.

That percentage of the crop is taken in rent despite a law setting rent ceilings at 25 per cent, said the report.

Johnson Moves In Copper Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson bids today to generate around-the-clock negotiations aimed at ending a 7½-month-old copper strike he has said could hurt the U.S. defense effort.

Woodstock GOP Endorses Bell for Assemblyman

The Woodstock Republican Committee has officially and unanimously endorsed Attorney H. Clark Bell for the Republican nomination for the State Assembly.

The action was announced by County Attorney and Woodstock Republican chairman Abram F. Molyneux.

The art colony GOP committee took the step last night during a meeting in Woodstock.

Town Chairman Molyneux said that the committee believed Bell to be "exceptionally well qualified for the office because of his extensive legislative experience in Albany."

The County Attorney also said, "Since 1963, H. Clark Bell has served on many legislative committees, such as the joint legislative committees involving the study of the alcoholic beverage control law, off-track betting, and he has also served as chief counsel on the New York City committee on the waterfront commission."

Molyneux further declared, "He (Bell) also gained valuable experience as a delegate to the recent State Constitutional Convention."

"By sending H. Clark Bell to Albany as our assemblyman we will gain the services of an experienced and effective representative, a representative who, because of his knowledge of Albany, can do more for Ulster County sooner," Molyneux concluded.

When informed of the committee's action, Bell said he was "deeply grateful" for the confidence placed in him by the entire Woodstock GOP committee, and that he would "work and campaign with as much energy as I can" in an attempt to live up to the endorsement of his fellow Republicans.

The Town of Woodstock GOP is the first organization to declare itself for an assembly candidate.

Johnson Moves In Copper Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson bids today to generate around-the-clock negotiations aimed at ending a 7½-month-old copper strike he has said could hurt the U.S. defense effort.

Johnson summoned leaders of the 26 unions and four major copper producers involved in the prolonged strike to a late-afternoon White House meeting.

"I shall request the parties to resume collective bargaining negotiations on an around-the-clock basis with the assistance of the secretaries of defense, labor and commerce," the President said Friday in calling the meeting.

Saying there is "no foreseeable prospect" that the companies and unions might otherwise settle their differences soon, Johnson warned the strike could "begin to have a substantial effect on our defense effort."

Some 50,000 workers in 22 states are striking four major producers: Kennecott, American Smelting & Refining, Anaconda and Phelps Dodge.

Stalemate the issue is a union demand for companywide bargaining—a demand the companies have refused even to discuss.

The unions want to make each company deal simultaneously with all unions representing its workers at all its facilities in several states, with a common contract expiration date for all unions.

Wages and fringe benefits also are at issue, with the strikers seeking a package similar to the $1.07 an hour recently granted by U.S. Metals Refining Co., Carteret, N.J., when it settled with its striking workers.

Wages at the four major firms range from $2.66 to $3.67 an hour.

White House-sponsored bargaining sessions have led to settlement of recent strikes in such key industries as steel, railroads and airlines.

Peace Corps Eyes Mid-Hudson Area, Needs For All Kinds Is New Approach

By JEAN F. DOLAN

The Peace Corps wants you. And a two pronged approach to that end got underway today in the Mid-Hudson Valley. Fifteen recruiters, all former Peace Corps volunteers, have set up shop for a week in room 601 at the Poughkeepsie Inn, Poughkeepsie. They will be contacting area college campuses and for the first time will be making an effort to interest community people in Peace Corps slots for the older, skilled and professional workers.

Person to Person

In the past, the Peace Corps had concentrated its recruiting efforts on campus. However, recognizing value of having established personnel from the greater community serve as volunteers, the program has been expanded this year. The need for all kinds of people is being stressed on a person-to-person basis in the new recruiting approach.

Coordinator of the regional team which will be in this area is David Cadigan, a former Peace Corps worker in Bangkok.

For two years he taught English literature at the university there. In the interim he taught in St. Louis schools, returning to the corps as a recruiter.

In addition to visiting area campuses, the recruiting crew will distribute literature and contact people in the community. The office at the Poughkeepsie Inn will have a wealth of information available for those who drop-in or call by telephone.

Two-Way Street

Knowledgeable ex-volunteers will be more than ready to give first hand information and advice.

In talking to some of the recruiters it is easy to see the Peace Corps is a two-way street full of rewards for the volunteer as well as the recipients of aid and information.

Linda Nord of Michigan who is currently doing advance work for the regional recruiters, found her experiences in West Africa an exciting adventure in person-to-person understanding. She taught English to adults and children as well as volunteering as an interpreter on a hospital ship.

Miss Nord said that this is the fourth major area in the northeastern United States to be visited under the new recruitment program and community response has been "very good."

And the regional team will have its work cut out for it. From the Poughkeepsie base they will be operating as far north as Albany and as far south as Staten Island.

They expect to receive an able assist from Ray Holland, 26-year-old director of all recruiting for the Peace Corps. A former volunteer to Latin America, Holland will be in the area to speak, recruit and meet people.

Plans are made to supply speakers to all interested groups in the community upon request. Television and radio appearances are slated to help meet even more people with the Peace Corps message.

The Specific Needs
Among the specific categories needed for a well-rounded Peace Corps program are doctors, nurses, lab technicians and other professionals. Host countries have particularly requested plumbers, pipefitters, welders, chemical, mechanical and civil engineers, surveyors and industrial arts teachers.

Developing countries eager to develop and improve communications systems welcome the help of radio, television and newspaper people.

It is not necessary for an applicant to hold a college degree, though most volunteers teach, others work with health centers, construction and planning programs, credit unions and a variety of other projects.

Nixonites Challenge Rocky

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Richard M. Nixon's forces are challenging New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller to get into the Wisconsin Republican presidential primary race and give the voters a choice.

The former Vice president's Wisconsin campaign manager, John K. MacIver, said Rockefeller should permit his name to go on the ballot since he'd "clearly indicated" a willingness to accept the GOP nomination.

"We of the Wisconsin Nixon Committee," he said in a telegram to the governor, "promise you an open and clean campaign that will provide the people a choice and our party a winning candidate."

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy said in New Hampshire, meanwhile, that his Democratic presidential bid is aimed at producing "a kind of citizens' uprising" against President Johnson's Vietnam war and other policies.

And former Alabama Gov. George Wallace carried his third party presidential candidacy to Omaha, Neb., calling conclusions of the President's Commission on Civil Disorders "unbelievable."

Wallace said pro-Communist militants—not the entire population—should have been blamed for last summer's city riots. Nixon said he's not encouraging Rockefeller to enter the primary and said he thinks he can establish a "winner's image" even if he doesn't have strong opposition. He told a group of weekly newspaper editors at Delavan, Wis., "I'm inclined to think that the winner's image is established not by the percentage of your win, but by how you win, how you come across, how you campaign."

Rockefeller has until Tuesday to get into the Wisconsin primary.

But backers have said he'll stay out of the primaries—waiting for draft support to develop and hoping lack of stiff opposition will weaken the impact of Nixon's primary victories. McCarthy told a Dartmouth College crowd at Hanover, N.H., his antiwar campaign challenges "the country to respond in a political way in a manner in which no really great Democratic nation has ever been called upon to respond."

The Minnesota Democrat also said Michigan Gov. George Romney's withdrawal from the GOP presidential race will produce a better test of voters' antiwar sentiment. "The test is clearer now," he said.

McCarthy aides earlier expected about 10 per cent of the vote in New Hampshire's March 12 primary but now claim he'll get 20 to 30 per cent.

She Sure Can --

A girl or boy from the mid-West or the Mid-Hudson Valley can find happiness and much more while serving in the Peace Corps. A team of 15 recruiters will be in this area starting today to tell the Peace Corps Story on college campuses and in the community. An added feature of this regional approach is the person-to-person plan of recruitment for not just college students but older skilled and professional aides as well.

Stepski-Besser Nuptials Told

Miss Roseann Stepski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Stepski, 9 Third Avenue, Kingston, was married Saturday, Feb. 17, to Helmut Besser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Heinz Besser, Munich, Germany, at a Nuptial Mass in Immaculate Conception Church, this city.

The Rev. William Shultz of St. Clement's Church, Saratoga Springs, officiated at the double ring ceremony. Miss Eileen Reis sang traditional wedding selections, accompanied at the organ by Arthur Perry.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white Saki costume suit featuring a side buttoned jacket with mandarin neckline. A Brussels lace mantilla served as her headpiece and she carried an ethereal bouquet of stephanotis and orchids.

Mrs. Paul Celuch, 33 Derrenbacher Street, Kingston, was matron of honor for her sister. She wore a pink wool three-piece suit with matching hat and carried a Colonial bouquet of pink carnations.

Paul Celuch, brother-in-law of the bride, was best man. After the wedding a reception was held at Tommy's Restaurant.

For her wedding trip to Spain and Portugal, the bride selected a blue and yellow knit dress with navy accessories.

The bride, a graduate of Kingston High School, Dutchess Community College and Albany State Teachers College, was employed as a business teacher at Kingston High School.

Her husband is employed at IBM, Kingston and Germany. Mr. and Mrs. Besser will reside in Mainz, Germany.

Teachers Choose First Negro Leader

BY ARLENE EDWARDS
Winston-Salem Journal and Sentinel

SALISBURY, N.C. (AP)—The same thing that got Libby Kooztz fired from her first teaching job almost 30 years ago got her elected last summer to the top office in the education profession.

It was—and is—her outspoken concern for the welfare of the classroom teacher.

Libby—Mrs. Harry L. Kooztz of Salisbury—is a Negro.

She is the first of her race to be elected president of NEA, National Education Association, the nation's largest educational organization.

Mrs. Kooztz debunks the idea that she was elected BECAUSE she is a Negro but she readily admits that being a Negro is going to make her NEA presidency different from any other.

Back in 1939, it was her own welfare that had Libby, a just-out-of-Livingstone College beginning teacher, concerned enough to speak out.

She and nine other teachers were living in a teacherage run by their principal in Dunn, N.C. To sleep at the teacherage, they also had to eat there. And it didn't take many meals to convince them that the principal was pocketing some of the money they were paying him for food.

So Libby led a protest. When contract renewal time rolled around, she found herself without a job.

Her concern has spread today to almost a million other teachers across the nation—the members of the National Education Association who elected her vice-president-president elect.

In this position this year and as president next year, she will travel throughout the nation attempting to right wrongs committed against teachers that "would make your hair stand on end."

Will Try to Correct a Wrong
At the same time, she will be quietly attempting to correct another wrong—the segregated society that has made the Negro a second-class citizen in America.

She sandwiches her classes in between trips that take up an average of two days each week, and relies on a substitute teacher—"an exceptionally good teacher, the kind students dislike at the beginning of the year and love at the end"—to fill the gap when she's away.

Her travels have been the basis for many absentee lessons. In geography, the kids trace her trips on classroom maps from postcards she mails them along the way. In arithmetic, they compute her mileage, which has passed the million mark.

Then, when she's back in the classroom, they ask questions about what she did, who she did it with, what she ate, where she stayed.

Some Classroom Questions
Questions like "Were they white hotels?" "Did Negroes run them?" have led to other questions according to Mrs. Kooztz. Things like:

"Do white people straighten their hair?"
"If white people stayed out in the sun, would they get as dark as Negroes?"

"All these questions made it obvious to me that there is an educational lag in this whole business of segregation," she said. "The white child wants to ask the Negro, How do you get your hair to stand out like that? Why does your collar get dirty?"

To help answer some of these questions, Mrs. Kooztz is developing a series of filmstrips, "The Negro: American Citizen," for the National School and Industrial Supply Corp. The filmstrips will parallel existing histories of the United States, but will contain the facts about Negroes and their contributions that have traditionally been omitted.

Integration, Our Strength
"I hope," she said, "it doesn't take much longer for us as a nation to realize that the integration of the total society is going to be one of the greatest strengths of this nation."

Stepski-Besser Nuptials Told

Miss Roseann Stepski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Stepski, 9 Third Avenue, Kingston, was married Saturday, Feb. 17, to Helmut Besser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Heinz Besser, Munich, Germany, at a Nuptial Mass in Immaculate Conception Church, this city.

The Rev. William Shultz of St. Clement's Church, Saratoga Springs, officiated at the double ring ceremony. Miss Eileen Reis sang traditional wedding selections, accompanied at the organ by Arthur Perry.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white Saki costume suit featuring a side buttoned jacket with mandarin neckline. A Brussels lace mantilla served as her headpiece and she carried an ethereal bouquet of stephanotis and orchids.

Mrs. Paul Celuch, 33 Derrenbacher Street, Kingston, was matron of honor for her sister. She wore a pink wool three-piece suit with matching hat and carried a Colonial bouquet of pink carnations.

Paul Celuch, brother-in-law of the bride, was best man.

After the wedding a reception was held at Tommy's Restaurant.

For her wedding trip to Spain and Portugal, the bride selected a blue and yellow knit dress with navy accessories.

The bride, a graduate of Kingston High School, Dutchess Community College and Albany State Teachers College, was employed as a business teacher at Kingston High School.

Her husband is employed at IBM, Kingston and Germany.

Mr. and Mrs. Besser will reside in Mainz, Germany.

Teachers Choose First Negro Leader

By ARLENE EDWARDS
Winston-Salem Journal and Sentinel

SALISBURY, N.C. (AP) —

The same thing that got Libby Kooztz fired from her first teaching job almost 30 years ago got her elected last summer to the top office in the education profession.

It was—and is—her outspoken concern for the welfare of the classroom teacher.

Libby—Mrs. Harry L. Kooztz of Salisbury—is a Negro.

She is the first of her race to be elected president of NEA, National Education Association, the nation's largest educational organization.

Mrs. Kooztz debunks the idea that she was elected BECAUSE she is a Negro but she readily admits that being a Negro is going to make her NEA presidency different from any other presidency in the organization's 110-year history.

Back in 1939, it was her own welfare that had Libby, a just-out-of-Livingstone College beginning teacher, concerned enough to speak out.

She and nine other teachers were living in a teacherage run by their principal in Dunn, N.C. To sleep at the teacherage, they also had to eat there. And it didn't take many meals to convince them that the principal was pocketing some of the money they were paying him for food.

So Libby led a protest. When contract renewal time rolled around, she found herself without a job.

Her concern has spread today it with, what she ate, where she stayed.

Some Classroom Questions
Questions like "Were they white hotels?" "Did Negroes run them?" have led to other questions according to Mrs. Kooztz. Things like:

"Do white people straighten their hair?"

"If white people stayed out in the sun, would they get as dark as Negroes?"

"All these questions made it obvious to me that there is an educational lag in this whole business of segregation," she said. "The white child wants to ask the Negro. How do you get your hair to stand out like that? Why does your collar get dirty?"

To help answer some of these questions, Mrs. Kooztz is developing a series of filmstrips, "The Negro: American Citizen," for the National School and Industrial Supply Corp. The filmstrips will parallel existing histories of the United States, but will contain the facts about Negroes and their contributions that have traditionally been omitted.

Integration, Our Strength
"I hope," she said, "it doesn't take much longer for us as a nation to realize that the integration of the total society is going to be one of the greatest strengths of this nation."

Three years ago, as the only woman in a 22-member United States delegation to a conference in Russia, Mrs. Kooztz found herself in the position of defending her nation's racial weaknesses.

"I had to admit to the bombings, to the segregated school system, to being eliminated from places because of color," she said. "But I could say that even as a Negro in the South and the victim of a segregated society, I have the opportunity to fight to change it."

Mr. Kooztz, who is the athletic director, assistant principal and a math and physical education teacher at Dunbar High School in East Spencer, encouraged Libby to run for her first office in the North Carolina Teachers Association at least 15 years ago.

If he has regretted the decision, he doesn't say so. . . .

Cabaret Night Will Be Held in Rhinebeck

The local community is invited to attend an unusual cabaret evening at the Beekman Arms in Rhinebeck on Thursday, March 7 at 8:30 p.m. Five Bard College students will perform in a musical satire written by Howard Koch, 1943 Academy Award winning screenwriter of "Casablanca."

The satire, "A Revolutionary Affair," will have in its cast

Randall Baier, Shirle Cassara, Jeffrey Harris, Jeffrey Raphaelson and Frolic Taylor, the same cast which presented the 45-minute satire on the Bard Campus last winter. Howard Koch, who lives in Woodstock, was in the audience at the time and praised the performance.

Also on the program will be "Fagen" and his jazz group and the plan is to include a new and timely dance drama "In the Courtyard," choreographed and performed by Frances Alenikoff, nationally known, distinguished performer who recently returned from a successful tour in various parts of the country.

In this unique presentation, Miss Alenikoff combines the kinetic excitement of the dance with the visual effect of film and the qualities of sound in music and poetry.

Tickets may be obtained by writing to Box 39, Bard College, Annandale-on-Hudson, N. Y., and will also be available at the Beekman Arms the evening of March 7. Seating capacity is limited.

The program is sponsored by the Bard College Faculty and Student Committees Against the War. For further information contact Mrs. Philip Oxley, Annandale-on-Hudson, N. Y.

Hanna - Horne - White - Quill

Drop Four Players From UCCC Basketball Squad

(Freeman Sports Staff)

"I have disciplined Leon Hanna, and I do not anticipate him playing at UCCC next year. He let his teammates, me, the college and the entire community down, simply by not doing his job." That was a declaration made by Ulster County Community College basketball coach Mike Perry upon his return from the Region XV basketball tournament.

Perry, disgusted by the way Hanna played in UCCC's first round loss to Wesley Junior College, pulled Hanna out of the game with 6:14 gone. After a brief exchange of conversation, Perry ordered Hanna to the dressing room, vowing never to have Hanna (a freshman) in uniform on any team he coached.

There were a few other surprises emanating from Perry's scolding (sad as it was) to the team in Trenton, N. J. As an aftermath to the Hanna incident, Perry also decided to eliminate from next year's plans three other freshmen, Ty-rone Quill, Frank Horn and Fred White.

LEON HANNA

Perry, refusing to elaborate in detail, said, "They got out of hand after the game and failed to show the proper attitude. Therefore, I have eliminated them from my plans for UCCC next year. I intend to base the 1968-69 Senator squad around Mike Derrenbacher and Al Overbey."

On the pleasant side (if that's the way you take it), a disqualification of Manhattan Community College via eligibility, enabled UCCC to win by default, its own Christmas Tournament.

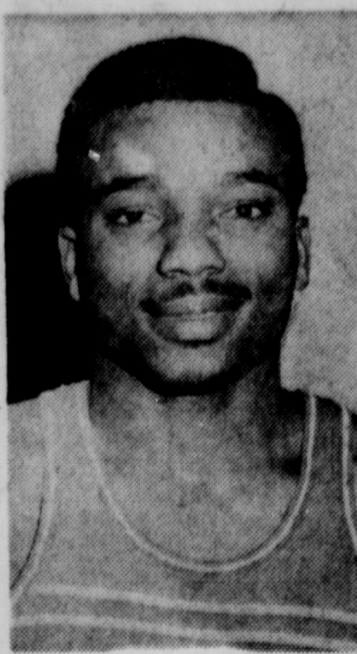

Manhattan, flagrantly violating the NJCAA eligibility rules, was ordered to forfeit all its 1967-68 games. In addition, it was handed a stiff two-year penalty, making it ineligible for any post-season tournaments until the 1970-71 season.

Fashion Institute of Technology found itself in the same boat, but drew a lesser one-year sanction.

A pair of surprise moves popped up at the region meetings. The region, largest of the 16 in the NJCAA, was divided into two divisions, North and South. Separate eight-team tournaments will be held with a play-off between the two winners.

Another Shocker

The second shocker came when the region's president, Howie Landa, tendered his resignation. He recommended that past president Robert K. Lake of Orange County be appointed. The committee refused to accept Landa's resignation at this time. They agreed to free Landa at the as-yet-undated Spring meeting, installing Lake at that time.

Hanna's suspension, according to Perry, was due to his failure to block out against Bill Mummert, Wesley's towering 7-foot-2, 275 pound center. "After about the seventh or eighth time up and down the court, Leon was huffing and puffing. He wasn't helping the team at all, so I asked Bill Zilliox if he would go in."

"Zilliox is 11 pounds under his normal weight (after a long siege with the flu), but without blinking an eyelash, he was off the bench and over to report in," Perry said.

"I chewed Leon out, simply because he wasn't doing his job and wasn't helping the team a bit. After a few more words, I sent him to the showers. If it were possible (Leon's clothes were at the motel) I would have sent him home that night with the spectator bus," Perry added.

"He might," Perry continued. "Have been afraid of him (Mummert), and I don't blame him, giving away nearly a foot in height and almost 85 pounds in weight. Yet Zilliox had no fear. I'll say this, I wouldn't care if it was the national championship; if that situation existed anywhere, I'd do exactly the same thing."

A very bright note brought a

smile to Perry's troubled face. He brought home Joe Uhl's All-Tourney certificate and trophy.

Uhl, the lone shining light in the Ulster-Wesley debacle, was a unanimous All-Tourney selection. This was a surprise in that he played in only one game.

Uhl joined Larry Jenkins of NYCCC, Wesley's Bob Wheeler, Brandywine's duo of James Stewart and Dean Founds, Morris' two-some of John McWilliams and Bill Knorr, and a trio of stars from Mercer, the region champ.

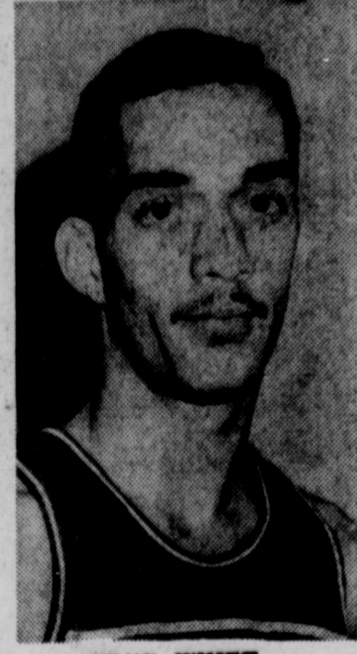

Led by all-tourney selections Bob Sands, Wayne Sokolowski and Most Valuable Player, Jim Naples, Mercer stopped Robert Morris in the finals, 59-56.

Brandywine, the Senators' original opponent, wound up third, knocking off Wesley, 105-91 in the consolation.

Mummert, matched against players more his own size, got only five points in the last two games. He racked up 27 against UCCC.

"I honestly feel we could have beaten Brandywine and Wesley had we played our normal game. Against Morris, it would have been a tossup. We would have needed a really outstanding game to even have a chance against Mercer. They're simply too big and too experienced. One thing I learned—don't go into a tournament without any height," Perry concluded.

OCS-Washingtonville Opens Section Nine Tuesday

The high school basketball players have been pounding up and down the hardwood since the first of November. Now, the early part of March, finds them practicing even harder. Simply because the Section Nine Tournament opens Tuesday.

This is the climax to the long, hard season, and can make the entire effort worthwhile for any team, providing it brings home a class championship.

That will be Ontario's goal.

one that coach Wes Kissel has been pointing to for these many months.

Kissel's OCS cagers signal the start of the tourney, meeting Washingtonville of the OCL at 7 p. m. in Marlboro's gym.

They face in the preliminary round of the Class B tourney (male enrollment between 333-340) and kick off a four-class battle involving 19 teams in 17 games.

For the first time, Section Nine slated an Open Tourna-

The second game Tuesday, with tipoff following the OCS-Washies clash, pits Newburgh against Valley Central in the Class A (589-1537) openers.

Ontario and Washingtonville have both had an extra game since the regular season closed. OCS lost in a playoff with Rondout Valley for the UCAL title. The Washies made it into the sectional by defeating Warwick Saturday night for third place in the OCL Division A.

The extra game has helped keep both squads sharp. OCS will have a slight edge in the rest department since its play-off to recuperate from the Rondout loss.

The teams are matched pretty evenly in personnel. Ontario is not an extremely big team—neither is Washingtonville.

The Ernie Thompson coached Washies play a run-and-shoot game as does OCS, and are willing to swap baskets with anybody. Thompson's theory is that sharpshooter Jan Quimby can keep them above water.

Firing away at a 25.6 clip, Quimby is a powerful cog in Thompson's attack. Add to Quimby the 12 points a game that Al Dolson garners and Thompson has himself a formidable attack.

The rest of the squad adds more than their share, thus Washingtonville has been able to hit roughly 65 a game in complying a 7-5 league mark and a 10-7 season count.

Kissel has a pair of double figure scorers to offset the Quimby-Dolson duo. They are Mike Patrick (18.7) and Mickey Bush (16.0).

No defensive matchups have been announced so far by either coach. Kissel will undoubtedly stay with the man-to-man defense that brought the Indians this far.

Thompson, who believes in shifting regularly from man-to-man to zone (he uses several variations), thinks he can stop any team's attack with defenses tailored to stopping the opposition's strength.

In the nightcap, NFA, the DUSO League runner-up to Kingston, will have to perform some magic to stop the Vikings Chris Hoornbeck.

The 6-foot forward was right in the OCL race with a sparkling 24 a game average.

Newburgh's Gay Powell, runner-up to Monticello's suspended Willie Bradley, will have to counter-balance Hoornbeck if NFA is to triumph.

Action resumes Friday in both classes. Kingston, favored to repeat for the third consecutive time in Class A, takes on North Rockland (8-6) in the Rockland PSAL while Clarks-town (10-4 in the same loop) meets the winner of the VC-NFA game.

KHS-NR is at 8:30 at Marlboro, with the Clarkstown game the 7 p. m. preliminary.

In Class B, the Washies-OCS winner meets the Bradley-less Monties at 7 and Rondout meets another defense-minded team in Pearl River. That game starts at 8:30. Both are in Valley Central's gym (Montgomery).

NP Swimmers Sixth In SUNYAC Meet

State University College at New Paltz swimmers wound up their season with a sixth place finish in the SUNYAC Swimming Championships in Fredonia on Saturday.

Oneonta State University ran off with the team title for the second straight year. Oneonta led the two-day, 6th annual competition from the start and finished with 434 placement points, a 106-point edge over its nearest rival, Buffalo State, in the 10 college tournament.

Diver Art Kramer's third place finish in the one meter diving was the best individual performance of the day for the New Paltz Hawks.

Fred Sachs of New Paltz established several new varsity records, as did Doug Poyourow, though neither won an event.

Sachs' fourth place 32.0 finish in the 100 yard freestyle and his seventh place 5:46.0 clocking in the 500 yard freestyle were records for the Hawks. Sachs was also sixth in the 200 yard freestyle with a time of 1:58.00.

Poyourow Sets Mark
Doug Poyourow notched a new 1:28.0 mark in the 100 yard butterfly, finishing fifth. David Greene was sixth in the 200 yard breaststroke, timed in 2:29.9.

Twin victories by Randy Magin paced Oneonta. Magin captured the 100-yard butterfly and established a new conference record of 2:09.0 in the 200-yard individual medley.

John Chapin of host Fredonia was also a double winner, taking back to back triumphs in the 100-yard backstroke in a conference record time of 0:56.5 and also winning the 50 yard freestyle.

In the rest of the wrap-up's

nine varsity events, Peter Stone of Plattsburgh won the 1,650 yard freestyle; Mike Christy of Oneonta took the honors in the 100-yard freestyle; Charles Dean of Brockport was the victor in the 100-yard backstroke; Aaron Karp of Buffalo State was first in the one-meter diving; and Brockport's squad won the 400-yard medley relay.

The Triple Winners
Christy, Stone and Chapin each had three victories in the 16 events and will compete in the tournament's national NAA championship March 14-16 at St. Cloud, Minnesota.

Brockport won third place

Army Quintet Stops Rochester in Finale

Army's "Cinderella" basketball team put in an impressive final tuneup for the upcoming NIT, easily stopping Rochester 75-55, and at the same time, broke an academy record for most regular season wins.

The Cadets, darlings of the collegiate cage season, registered their 20th victory, passing over the 1964-65 hoopers who had 9 regular wins plus two in the NIT to garner 21 triumphs in a single season.

That record is the next goal for coach Bob Knight's Cadets. Also on the line is the individual career scoring mark.

Should Army make it to the semi-finals of the NIT, it would guarantee season scoring leader Bill Schutsky four games that he could play in.

Schutsky currently has 1,261 career points, third on the all-time Cadet list. Averaging 19.8

per game, he could readily pass Stu Sherard, second at 1,299, but would have to exceed his average to climb over Mike Sillman's 1,342 total.

Schutsky popped in 17 and Mike Noonan 18 as Army combined tens of eight straight, 18-8 and 13-2 to dominate over the (13-7) Rochester unit.

In other weekend highlights, Army scored in every event except the long jump to win the 21st annual Heptagonal Indoor Track Meet at Ithaca. It took a strong rally in the evening events to upend favored Harvard.

The Cadet rifle team swept both team and individual honors in winning the NRA Sectionals. Their score will be matched against other sectional winners to determine the national titlist.

In another surprise, the Cadets sank Princeton's swimmers, 61-52, thus knotting Army with both Princeton and Dartmouth for second in the Eastern League. Yale won the title.

Posse's First Show Is Planned

Plans are progressing for the Ulster County Sheriff's Posse's 1st annual horse show scheduled for May 26 at the Ulster County Fair Show Ring in New Paltz.

One of the East's outstanding horse trainers, Robert Petrolino of the Sonob Farm in Upper Saddle River, N. J., has accepted an invitation to judge the show.

Show chairman Lewis McMahon of Rifton and secretary Albert Milliken of Kingston will have the $400 prize list ready soon. Persons wanting a copy should contact either of these members.

The Sheriff's posse plans to buy a four-wheel drive, Jeep-type vehicle for rescue work with the money made from the horse show.

76ers Expect Smoother Sailing

BOSTON (AP) — The Philadelphia 76ers breathed a little easier today en route to a third straight Eastern Division championship in their National Basketball Association rivalry with the Boston Celtics.

In other NBA action Sunday, Cincinnati topped Seattle 138-128. Detroit drubbed Chicago 134-123. Los Angeles took Baltimore 121-114 and St. Louis edged San Diego 106-104.

New York trounced Detroit 133-107. Los Angeles outlasted Seattle 127-121 and San Francisco beat Baltimore 117-109 Saturday.

Hannum Confident
"Barring injuries, we're in fine shape now," Philadelphia Coach Alex Hannum said after the four-filled duel with the Celtics. "This had to be a rising to the occasion."

With Hal Greer hitting for 43 points, the 76ers built a 21-point lead midway through the fourth period and then checked a desperation rally by the Celtics.

The Celtics were up for the game, but their hopes of handing Philadelphia a fourth straight garden loss and taking a 5-2 season advantage over the 76ers were dashed by the outside shooting and penetrating drives of Greer and Wally Jones.

With both teams aiming for a showdown in the Eastern play-off finals, the 76ers proved they can win in Boston, where they managed just four victories in 20 previous regular season visits.

Referees Norm Drucker and Don Murphy called 70 fouls, including three technicals, in the rugged game before a national television audience and a Garden crowd of 14,692, the largest pro basketball turnout in Boston history. The Garden recently added seats, doing away with the familiar 13,909 capacity.

Cincinnati's victory kept the fourth-place Royals 1 1/2 games ahead of Detroit, who replaced Baltimore in fifth place in the Eastern Division.

Connie Dierking's 41 points, a pro-career high, sparked the 76ers' victory. Cincinnati led 66-65 at halftime, but Dierking and Adrian Smith spurred them into a 77-70 lead early in the third period and Seattle never caught up. Smith finished with

Hanna - Horne - White - Quill

Drop Four Players From UCCC Basketball Squad

(Freeman Sports Staff)

"I have disciplined Leon Hanna, and I do not anticipate him playing at UCCC next year. He let his teammates, me, the college and the entire community down, simply by not doing his job." That was a declaration made by Ulster County Community College basketball coach Mike Perry upon his return from the Region XV basketball tourney.

Perry, disgusted by the way Hanna played in UCCC's first round loss to Wesley Junior College, pulled Hanna out of the game with 6:14 gone. After a brief exchange of conversation, Perry ordered Hanna to the dressing room, vowing never to have Hanna (a freshman) in uniform on any team he coached.

There were a few other surprises emanating from Perry's sojourn (sad as it was) to the tourney in Trenton, N. J. As an aftermath to the Hanna incident, Perry also decided to eliminate from next year's plans three other freshmen, Ty-rone Quill, Frank Horn and Fred White.

LEON HANNA

Perry, refusing to elaborate in detail, said, "They got out of hand after the game and failed to show the proper attitude."

Therefore, I have eliminated them from my plans for UCCC next year. I intend to base the

On the pleasant side (if that's the way you take it), a disqualification of Manhattan Community College via eligibility, enabled UCCC to win by default, its own Christmas Tournament.

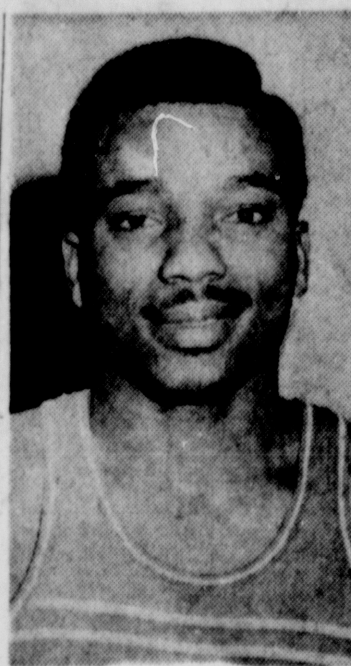

Manhattan, flagrantly violating the NJCAA eligibility rules, was ordered to forfeit all its 1967-68 games. In addition, it was handed a stiff two-year penalty, making it ineligible for any post-season tournaments until the 1970-71 season.

Fashion Institute of Technology found itself in the same boat, but drew a lesser one-year sanction.

A pair of surprise moves popped up at the region meetings. The region, largest of the 16 in the NJCAA, was divided into two divisions, North and South. Separate eight-team tournaments will be held with a play-off between the two winners.

Another Shocker

The second shocker came when the region's president, Howie Landa, tendered his resignation. He recommended that past president Robert K. Lake of Orange County be appointed. The committee refused to accept Landa's resignation at this time. They agreed to free Landa at the as-yet-undated Spring meeting, installing Lake at that time.

Hanna's suspension, according to Perry, was due to his failure to block out against Bill Mum-mert, Wesley's towering 7-foot-2, 275 pound center. "After about the seventh or eighth time up and down the court, Leon was huffing and puffing. He wasn't helping the team at all, so I asked Bill Zilliox if he would go in."

"Zilliox is 11 pounds under his normal weight (after a long siege with the flu), but without blinking an eyelash, he was off the bench and over to report in," Perry said.

"I chewed Leon out, simply because he wasn't doing his job and wasn't helping the team a bit. After a few more words, I sent him to the showers. If it were possible (Leon's clothes were at the hotel) I would have sent him home that night with the spectator bus," Perry added.

"He might," Perry continued. "Have been afraid of him (Mumert), and I don't blame him, giving away nearly a foot in height and almost 85 pounds in weight. Yet Zilliox had no fear. I'll say this, I wouldn't care if it was the national championship; if that situation existed anywhere, I'd do exactly the same thing."

A very bright note brought a

Uhl Unanimous

Uhl, the lone shining light in the Ulster-Wesley debacle, was a unanimous All-Tourney selection. This was a surprise in that he played in only one game.

Uhl joined Larry Jenkins of NYCCC, Wesley's Bob Wheeler, Brandywine's duo of James Stewart and Dean Founds, Morris' two-some of John McWilliams and Bill Knorr, and a trio of stars from Mercer, the region champ.

Led by all-tourney selections Bob Sands, Wayne Sokolowski and Most Valuable Player, Jim Naples, Mercer stopped Robert Morris in the finals, 59-56.

Brandywine, the Senators' original opponent, wound up third, knocking off Wesley, 105-91 in the consolation.

Mumert, matched against players more his own size, got only five points in the last two games. He racked up 27 against UCCC.

"I honestly feel we could have beaten Brandywine and Wesley had we played our normal game. Against Morris, we would have been a tossup. We would have needed a really outstanding game to even have a chance against Mercer. They're simply too big and too experienced. One thing I learned—don't go into a tournament without any height," Perry concluded.

OCS-Washingtonville Opens Section Nine Tuesday

The high school basketball players have been pounding up and down the hardwood since the first of November. Now, the early part of March, finds them practicing even harder. Simply because the Section Nine Tournament opens Tuesday.

This is the climax to the long, hard season, and can make the entire effort worthwhile for any team, providing it brings home a class championship.

That will be Ontario's goal.

Kissel's OCS cagers signal the start of the tourney, meeting Washingtonville of the OCL at 7 p. m. in Marlboro's gym.

They face in the preliminary round of the Class B tourney (male enrollment between 335-540) and kick off a four-class battle involving 19 teams in 17 games.

For the first time, Section Nine slated an Open Tourna-

The second game Tuesday, with tipoff following the OCS-Washies clash, pits Newburgh against Valley Central in the Class A (589-1537) openers.

Ontario and Washingtonville have both had an extra game since the regular season closed. OCS lost in a playoff with Rondout Valley for the UCL title. The Washies made it into the sectional by defeating Warwick Saturday night for third place in the OCL Division A.

The extra game has helped keep both squads sharp. OCS will have a slight edge in the rest department since its play-off to recuperate from the Rondout loss.

The teams are matched pretty evenly in personnel. Ontario is not an extremely big team—neither is Washingtonville.

The Ernie Thompson coached Washies play a run-and-shoot game as does OCS, and are willing to swap baskets with anybody. Thompson's theory is that sharpshooter Jan Quimby can keep them above water.

Firing away at a 25.6 clip, Quimby is a powerful cog in Thompson's attack. Add to Quimby the 12 points a game that Al Dolson garners and Thompson has himself a formidable attack.

The rest of the squad adds more than their share, thus Washingtonville has been able to hit roughly 65 a game in complying a 7-5 league mark and a 10-7 season count.

Kissel has a pair of double-figure scorers to offset the Quimby-Dolson duo. They are Mike Patrick (18.7) and Mickey Bush (16.0).

No defensive matchups have been announced so far by either coach. Kissel will undoubtedly stay with the man-to-man defense that brought the Indians this far.

Thompson, who believes in shifting regularly from man-to-man to zone (he uses several variations), thinks he can stop any team's attack with defenses tailored to stopping the opposition's strength.

In the nightcap, NFA, the DUSO League runner-up to Kingston, will have to perform some magic to stop the Vikings Chris Hoorbeck.

The 6-foot forward was right in the OCL race with a sparkling 24 a game average.

Newburgh's Gay Powell, runner-up to Monticello's suspended Willie Bradley, will have to counter-balance Hoorbeck if NFA is to triumph.

Action resumes Friday in both classes. Kingston, favored to repeat for the third consecutive time in Class A, takes on North Rockland (8-6) in the Rockland PSAL while Clarkstown (10-4 in the same loop) meets the winner of the VC-NFA game.

KHS-NR is at 8:30 at Marlboro, with the Clarkstown game the 7 p. m. preliminary.

In Class B, the Washies-OCS winner meets the Bradley-less Monties at 7 and Rondout meets another defense-minded team in Pearl River. That game starts at 8:30. Both are in Valley Central's gym (Montgomery).

NP Swimmers Sixth In SUNYAC Meet

State University College at New Paltz swimmers wound up their season with a sixth place finish in the SUNYAC Swimming Championships in Fredonia on Saturday.

Oneonta State University ran off with the team title for the second straight year. Oneonta led the two-day, 6th annual competition from the start and finished with 434 placement points, a 106-point edge over its nearest rival, Buffalo State, in the 10 college tournament.

Diver Art Kramer's third place finish in the one meter diving was the best individual performance of the day for the New Paltz Hawks.

Fred Sachs of New Paltz established several new varsity records, as did Doug Poyourow, though neither won an event. Sachs' fourth place 52.0 finish in the 100 yard freestyle and his seventh place 5:46.0 clocking in the 500 yard freestyle were records for the Hawks. Sachs was also sixth in the 200 yard freestyle with a time of 1:58.00.

Poyourow Sets Mark

Doug Poyourow notched a new 1:28.0 mark in the 100 yard butterfly, finishing fifth. David Greene was sixth in the 200 yard breaststroke, timed in 2:29.9.

Twin victories by Randy Magin paced Oneonta. Magin captured the 100-yard butterfly and established a new conference record of 2:09.0 in the 200-yard individual medley.

John Chapin of host Fredonia was also a double winner, taking back to back triumphs in the 100-yard backstroke in a conference record time of 0:56.5 and also winning the 50 yard freestyle.

In the rest of the wrap-up's

nine varsity events, Peter Stone of Plattsburgh won the 1,650 yard freestyle. Mike Christy of Oneonta took the honors in the 100-yard freestyle. Charles Dean of Brockport was the victor in the 100-yard backstroke. Aaron Karp of Buffalo State was first in the one-meter diving; and Brockport's squad won the 400-yard medley relay.

The Triple Winners

Christy, Stone and Chapin each had three victories in the 18 events and will compete in the tournament's national NAIA championship March 14-16 at St. Cloud, Minnesota.

Brockport won third place team honors with 229 points, followed by Fredonia 220, Plattsburgh 193, New Paltz 99; Cortland 72, Oswego 51, Geneseo 35 and Potsdam 0.

Buffalo State won the freshman team title with 117 points, followed by Brockport with 45.

Next year's competition will be held in Oswego.

New Paltz coach Art Stockin was not unhappy with his team's efforts. The Hawks posted a 2-11 regular season mark. "We had good individual performances," said Coach Stockin. "But we lacked depth."

Looking over the freshman team, Stockin declared, "It looks optimistic for next year."

Army Quintet Stops Rochester in Finale

Army's "Cinderella" basketball team put in an impressive final tuneup for the upcoming NIT, easily stopping Rochester 75-55, and at the same time, broke an academy record for most regular season wins.

The Cadets, darlings of the collegiate cage season, registered their 20th victory, passing over the 1964 65 hoopers who had 9 regular wins plus two in the NIT to garner 21 triumphs in a single season.

That record is the next goal for coach Bob Knight's Cadets. Also on the line is the individual career scoring mark.

Should Army make it to the semi-finals of the NIT, it would guarantee season scoring leader Bill Schutsky four games that he could play in.

Schutsky currently has 1,261 career points, third on the all-time Cadet list. Averaging 19.8

per game, he could readily pass Stu Sherard, second at 1,299, but would have to exceed his average to climb over Mike Sullivan's 1,342 total.

Schutsky popped in 17 and Mike Noonan 16 as Army combined tears of eight straight, 18-8 and 13-2 to dominate over the (13-7) Rochester unit.

In other weekend highlights, Army scored in every event except the long jump to win the 21st annual Heptagonal Indoor Track Meet at Ithaca. It took a strong rally in the evening events to upend favored Harvard.

The Cadet rifle team swept both team and individual honors in winning the NRA Sectionals. Their score will be matched against other sectional winners to determine the national titlist.

In another surprise, the Cadets sank Princeton's swimmers, 61-52, thus knotting Army with both Princeton and Dartmouth for second in the Eastern League. Yale won the title.

76ers Expect Smoother Sailing

BOSTON (AP) — The Philadelphia 76ers breathed a little easier today en route to a third straight Eastern Division championship in their National Basketball Association rivalry with the Boston Celtics.

The 76ers beat a Boston psyche and a Garden hex while defeating the Celtics 133-127 and taking a big stride toward the title Sunday.

In other NBA action Sunday, Cincinnati topped Seattle 138-128, Detroit drubbed Chicago 134-123, Los Angeles took Baltimore 121-114 and St. Louis edged San Diego 106-104.

New York trounced Detroit 133-107, Los Angeles outlasted Seattle 127-121 and San Francisco beat Baltimore 117-109 Saturday.

Hannum Confident

"Barring injuries, we're in fine shape now," Philadelphia Coach Alex Hannum said after the foul-filled duel with the Celtics. "This had to be a very rising to the occasion."

With Hal Greer hitting for 43 points, the 76ers built a 21-point lead midway through the fourth period and then checked a desperation rally by the Celtics.

The Celtics were up for the game, but their hopes of handing Philadelphia a fourth straight garden loss and taking a 5-2 season advantage over the 76ers were dashed by the outside shooting and penetrating drives of Greer and Wally Jones.

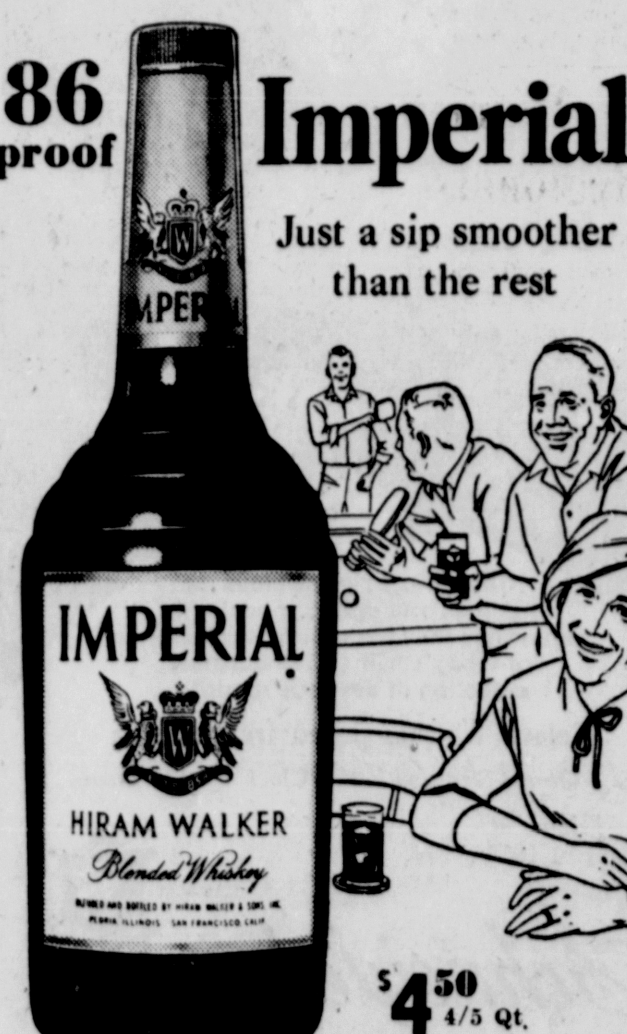

With both teams aiming for a showdown in the Eastern playoff finals, the 76ers proved they can win in Boston, where they managed just four victories in 20 previous regular season visits.

Referees Norm Drucker and Don Murphy called 70 fouls, including three technicals, in the rugged game before a national television audience and a Garden crowd of 14,892, the largest pro basketball turnout in Boston history. The Garden recently added seats, doing away with the familiar 13,909 capacity.

Cincinnati's victory kept the fourth-place Royals 1 1/2 games ahead of Detroit, who replaced Baltimore in fifth place in the Eastern Division.

Connie Dierking's 41 points, a pro-career high, sparked the Royals' victory. Cincinnati led 66-65 at halftime, but Dierking and Adrian Smith spurred them into a 77-70 lead early in the third period and Seattle never caught up. Smith finished with

Posse's First Show Is Planned

THE PRINCIPALS: The New Madison Square Garden, originally "the house that boxing built" opens its premiere boxing card with a fistful doubleheader tonight. Joe Frazier meets Buster Mathis for a share of the heavyweight crown, while Emile Griffith defends his middleweight title against former champion Nino Benvenuti. The 20,000 seats at the new Garden are scaled from $100 at ringside to $10 for the mezzanine for the event. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Frazier and Griffith Remain Solid Choices

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Frazier, Emile Griffith and the Madison Square Garden box office remained the favorites today in a championship boxing doubleheader that could set financial records.

A crowd of 16,000 was expected to see Frazier, an Olympic champion four years ago, battle Buster Mathis for a share of the heavyweight championship after Griffith puts his middleweight crown on the line against Italy's Nino Benvenuti.

Frazier was a 2-1 favorite over Mathis and Griffith ruled as an 8-5 choice over Benvenuti. The Garden has guaranteed the four fighters $505,000 and with tickets scaled from $10 to $100, a sellout would gross about $750,000.

The gross receipts record for an indoor fight is $511,000 for the third Floyd Patterson-Ingemar Johansson heavyweight bout in Miami Beach's Convention Hall March 13, 1961.

Frazier and Mathis, oldtime foes, battle for the New York and Massachusetts versions of the heavyweight crown. They've fought twice before, both times in amateur bouts, with Mathis winning both.

Won Olympic Crown
Mathis broke his hand in the second bout and Frazier replaced him in the 1964 Olympics. The Philadelphia slugger went on to win the Olympic heavyweight crown.

Both Mathis and Frazier are undefeated as pros, Frazier has 17 knockouts and 19 straight victories while Mathis, the big boy from Grand Rapids, Mich., is 23-0 with 17 knockouts.

Frazier is favored because he has fought tougher opponents including George Chuvalo of Canada, Eddie Machen, Doug Jones and Billy Daniels.

"I'm going to take out that big boy," he says of Mathis, "maybe in five or six."

Mathis, once a blubbery 320 pounds but now a comparatively svelte 242, sounded just as confident. "He makes a lot of mistakes," Mathis said. "I'm going to take advantage of them. I'm ready to go 15 but maybe I won't have to. He's wide open."

No Live Television
There will be no live television of the boxing show at Madison Square Garden tonight. Nearest outlet for the closed TV broadcast is the Washington Street Armory in Albany.

The Griffith-Benvenuti scrap is the third meeting between these two. Benvenuti took the middleweight crown from Emile the first time and then Griffith reclaimed it at Shea Stadium last September.

Better As Challenger
"I fight better as a challenger," says Nino, who takes a 73-2 record and 30 knockouts into his battle with Griffith. He complained that a rib injury had hurt him against Griffith last time.

Griffith, the veteran from

Montreal, Canada, is still are streaking but they've reversed direction.

The Flying Frenchmen, who went through 25 games with just one defeat, suddenly have been grounded, tying once and losing three times in the last four games.

Montreal's two losses over the weekend, 3-2 to Minnesota Saturday and 5-2 to Detroit Sunday, combined with a pair of New York victories, 4-0 over Philadelphia Saturday and 4-0 over Chicago Sunday, have left the first-place Canadiens just three points ahead of New York in the East Division of the National Hockey League.

In other Sunday action, Boston trounced St. Louis 9-3 and Oakland tied Philadelphia 1-1. Toronto beat Los Angeles 5-2, Chicago and St. Louis tied 3-3 and Pittsburgh and Oakland deadlocked 6-6 in other Saturday games.

Sunday's victory was the fifth straight for New York, which moved ahead of Chicago in the fight to catch Montreal. It also was the second straight shutout and seventh of the season for goalie Ed Giacomin, who gets a $100 bonus from his club every time he blanks an opponent.

Orange Matmen Win Regionals
Orange County Community College narrowly edged defending champion Nassau Community in the 1968 Region XV wrestling tournament at Suffolk County Community College in Selden, Long Island on Saturday.

The Orangemen notched 68 points, 2 more than second place Nassau at 66. Keystone Junior College was third with 64.

Ulster County was tied with three schools for last place with 2 points.

Other competing teams were: Keystone Junior College 64, Suffolk CC 53, Montgomery JC 32, LI Aggies 31, Essex CC 21, Ocaen CC 16, Rockland CC 12, York JC 11, Westchester CC 10, Dutchess CC 7, Manhattan CC 4, Wesley JC 3, Bronx CC 2, Allegheny CC 2, Ulster CC 2, and Behrend JC 2.

Ed Adams of Farmingdale, the 152 pound regional champ, who is also defending his national title, was named outstanding wrestler of the tournament.

Next year's tournament will be held at Dutchess Community College.

There are a lot of good cars you can get for $3400. This is two of them.

If you don't happen to need two cars, there's only one thing that you need less. One car that costs as much as two cars.

Unless you want to pay a lot of money for a lot of horsepower that you'll never use. There's only one state in the country where you can go faster than a Volkswagen—Nevada. (No speed limit—they're big gamblers out there.)

The only extra horsepower you really need is for all those power gadgets. Which you need to drive a car that size. Which has to be that size to hold all those horses.

All of which also makes the average car cost almost as much to run as two Volkswagens. Considering a Volkswagen gets as much as 27 miles to a gallon of gas.

But if you're still not sold on the idea of two bugs for the price of one beast, why not take advantage of this special introductory offer: one Volkswagen for half the price of two.

THE PRINCIPALS: The New Madison Square Garden, originally "the house that boxing built" opens its premiere boxing card with a fistful of doubleheader tonight. Joe Frazier meets Buster Mathis for a share of the heavyweight crown, while Emile Griffith defends his middleweight title against former champion Nino Benvenuti. The 20,000 seats at the new Garden are scaled from $100 at ringside to $10 for the mezzanine for the event. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Frazier and Griffith Remain Solid Choices

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Frazier, Emile Griffith and the Madison Square Garden box office remained the favorites today in a championship boxing doubleheader that could set financial records.

A crowd of 16,000 was expected to see Frazier, an Olympic champion four years ago, battle Buster Mathis for a share of the heavyweight championship after Griffith puts his middleweight crown on the line against Italy's Nino Benvenuti.

Frazier was a 2-1 favorite over Mathis and Griffith ruled as an 8-5 choice over Benvenuti. The Garden has guaranteed the fights $505,000 and with tickets scaled from $10 to $100, a sellout would gross about $750,000.

The gross receipts record for an indoor fight is $511,000 for the third Floyd Patterson-Ingegnar Johansson heavyweight bout in Miami Beach's Convention Hall March 13, 1961.

Frazier and Mathis, oldtime foes, battle for the New York and Massachusetts versions of the heavyweight crown. They've fought twice before, both times in amateur bouts, with Mathis winning both.

Won Olympic Crown
Mathis broke his hand in the second bout and Frazier replaced him in the 1964 Olympics. The Philadelphia slugger went on to win the Olympic heavyweight crown.

Both Mathis and Frazier are undefeated as pros. Frazier has 17 knockouts and 19 straight victories while Mathis, the big boy from Grand Rapids, Mich., is 23-0 with 17 knockouts.

Frazier is favored because he has fought tougher opponents including George Chuvalo of Canada, Eddie Machen, Doug Jones and Billy Daniels.

"I'm going to take out that big boy," he says of Mathis, "maybe in five or six."

Mathis, once a blubbery 320 pounds but now a comparatively svelte 242, sounded just as confident. "He makes a lot of mistakes," Mathis said. "I'm going to take advantage of them. I'm ready to go 15 but maybe I won't have to. He's wide open."

No Live Television

There will be no live television of the boxing show at Madison Square Garden tonight. Nearest outlet for the closed TV broadcast is the Washington Street Armory in Albany.

The Griffith-Benvenuti scrap is the third meeting between these two. Benvenuti took the middleweight crown from Emile the first time and then Griffith reclaimed it at Shea Stadium last September.

Better As Challenger

"I fight better as a challenger," says Nino, who takes a 73-2 record and 30 knockouts into his battle with Griffith. He complained that a rib injury had hurt him against Griffith last time.

Griffith, the veteran from

New York, says simply, "I've got the title back and I intend to keep it." He takes 54-8 record into tonight's fight.

Each bout is scheduled for 15 rounds with scoring by rounds.

The Garden, which is paying Frazier and Griffith $175,000 each, Benvenuti $80,000 and Mathis $75,000, announced last week that a total of almost 12,000 seats from $10 to $50 were sold out. Also gone was a good chunk of the 7,000 seats priced at $75 and $100.

Harry Markson, director of boxing for the Garden, estimated a gross of between $600,000 and $700,000.

In addition to the live gate, there will be income from national closed circuit television, ancillary rights, and the telecast to Italy, Canada, Mexico and Puerto Rico.

Canucks Caught In Bad Tailspin

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Montreal Canadiens still are streaking but they've reversed direction.

The Flying Frenchmen, who went through 25 games with just one defeat, suddenly have been grounded, tying once and losing three times in the last four games.

Montreal's two losses over the weekend, 3-2 to Minnesota Saturday and 5-2 to Detroit Sunday, combined with a pair of New York victories, 4-0 over Philadelphia Saturday and 4-0 over Chicago Sunday, have left the first-place Canadiens just three points ahead of New York in the East Division of the National Hockey League.

In other Sunday action, Boston trounced St. Louis 9-3 and Oakland tied Philadelphia 1-1. Toronto beat Los Angeles 5-2, Chicago and St. Louis tied 3-3 and Pittsburgh and Oakland deadlocked 6-6 in other Saturday games.

Sunday's victory was the fifth straight for New York, which moved ahead of Chicago in the fight to catch Montreal. It also was the second straight shutout and seventh of the season for goalie Ed Giacomin, who gets a $100 bonus from his club every time he blanks an opponent.

Orange Matmen Win Regionals

Ulster County was tied with three schools for last place with 2 points.

Other competing teams were: Keystone Junior College 64, Suffolk CC 53, Montgomery JC 32, LI Aggies 31, Essex CC 21, Ocaen CC 16, Rockland CC 12, York JC 11, Westchester CC 10, Dutchess CC 7, Manhattan CC 4, Wesley JC 3, Bronx CC 2, Allegheny CC 2, Ulster CC 2, and Behrend JC 2.

Ed Adams of Farmingdale, the 152 pound regional champ who is also defending his national title, was named outstanding wrestler of the tournament.

Next year's tournament will be held at Dutchess Community College.

There are a lot of good cars you can get for '3400. This is two of them.*

If you don't happen to need two cars, there's only one thing that you need less. One car that costs as much as two cars.

Unless you want to pay a lot of money for a lot of horsepower that you'll never use. There's only one state in the country where you can go faster than a Volkswagen—Nevada. (No speed limit—they're big gamblers out there.)

The only extra horsepower you really need is for all those power gadgets. Which you need to drive a car that size. Which has to be that size to hold all those horses.

All of which also makes the average car cost almost as much to run as two Volkswagens. Considering a Volkswagen gets as much as 27 miles to a gallon of gas.

But if you're still not sold on the idea of two bugs for the price of one beast, why not take advantage of this special introductory offer: one Volkswagen for half the price of two.

Big Doings Tonight Out Ames, Iowa Way

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

There'll be big doings in Ames, Iowa, tonight as the college basketball season starts its last week of the regular season.

Iowa State, with a chance for its first Big Eight Conference title in 23 years, entertains first-place Kansas State. Iowa State is tied for second with Kansas, one game behind, but followers of the Cyclones are confident they will tie for the lead tonight, then win the title outright by beating Kansas on Saturday.

K-State defeated Colorado 67-56 Saturday while Iowa State has not played since its 93-92 overtime road victory over Nebraska last Friday.

The Iowa Hawkeyes, close to their first Big Ten Conference championship in 12 years, play at Minnesota and the unbeaten, top-ranked Houston Cougars are at West Texas in an effort to complete a 28-0 regular season.

Ohio State, one game back of Iowa, plays at Illinois and Kansas is at Oklahoma in other important games tonight.

The results of the Big Eight and Big Ten scrambles will fill two of the remaining six spots in the NCAA postseason tournament which opens on Saturday with seven first-round games.

Two at Stake

Two other NCAA berths will be decided Tuesday night. Columbia and Princeton play off for the Ivy League crown on St. John's neutral court in New York. Murray and East Tennessee meet in a similar playoff for the Ohio Valley Conference neutral court in Richmond, Ky.

Princeton gained its tie with Columbia by ending the Lions' 16-game winning streak Saturday night 68-57. East Tennessee tied Murray by defeating Tennessee Tech 85-82.

The Atlantic Coast Conference championship tourney, opening at Charlotte with four games Thursday, and the winner of the West Coast Athletic Conference in which Santa Clara leads Los Angeles Loyola by one game, will determine the last two NCAA berths.

UCLA, the defending national champ, Davidson, LaSalle, Texas Christian and Weber State qualified for the NCAA over the weekend.

They joined Houston, St. Bonaventure, St. John's, Florida State, Marquette, Chicago Loyola, New Mexico State, Boston College, Louisville, Bowling Green, and San Diego State.

Strike by Mutual Clerks Shuttters Yonkers Raceway

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — There will be no harness racing at Yonkers Raceway tonight because of a strike of mutual clerks.

The opening night card of a scheduled 70-night meeting was canceled at 6 p.m. Sunday by Martin Tananbaum, president of the track, when he learned that the mutual clerks had voted to strike.

"With the picket lines going up we decided to cancel," Tananbaum said. There was no indication whether there would be racing Tuesday night.

"I'd rather not go into details in the middle of negotiations," Tananbaum said. He added he was hopeful of an agreement with the union "in the light of the fact that the state stands to lose in excess of $200,000 and the city of Yonkers $10,000 nightly."

Yonkers Raceway is one of the country's major harness racing tracks with a nightly average mutual handle of approximately $2 million.

The mutual clerks are members of Local 32E of the Building Service Employees International Union. They are asking for $28 average basic salary, an increase of $2 over the $26 in the expired contract, plus additional fringe benefits.

The union also is asking for an increase from $19 to $26 nightly for clerks handling only the exacta betting.

Henry F. Chartier, president of Local 32E, declared the strike "could last long. For most of our men, working at Yonkers is a second job. Therefore they will not be under an economic squeeze."

State Mediator Meyer Druckner, who conferred with both sides Saturday and Sunday, said the "situation had become worse." He said "everyone is doing some thinking" and that he was hopeful of getting two sides together for future talks.

Green, Kentucky and New Mexico in the 23-team field.

UCLA qualified by routing California 115-71 for the Pacific-8 title. Davidson beat West Virginia 87-70 in the final of the Southern Conference championship tourney, and LaSalle romped over Temple 87-69 in the final of the Middle Atlantic Conference playoffs.

TCU took the Southwest Conference by beating Baylor 72-65, helped by Arkansas' 74-73 upset over Texas, and Weber State won the Big Sky Conference crown by defeating Montana State 85-80.

Dayton, beaten by UCLA in the final of last year's NCAA tourney, was picked Sunday for the National Invitation Tournament along with Marshall, which reached the semifinals of the NIT last year.

Joe Uhl Top Scorer In Conference Play

Jumping Joe Uhl, leading scorer on the Ulster County Community College basketball team, added another title to his already widely known list of accomplishments by taking the scoring championship of the Mid-Hudson Conference.

According to statistics compiled by the conference, Uhl won the title by more than 100 points, beating out runnerup Ed Strong of Sullivan, 328-226.

Uhl played in all 10 UCCC conference games, averaging a superlative 32.8. Strong saw action in Sullivan's 10 contests, winding up with a 22.6 chart.

Third was Westchester's Ed Braia with 191 scored in nine games for a 21.2 clip. Right behind was Orange County's brawny center, Mike Cusato. The rough-tough Cusato netted 21.1 points per game. Rounding out the top five was Rich Lawrence of Dutchess. He made it on a 19.6 average.

Uhl led the Senator's attack all year long, helping them obtain a perfect 10-0 conference slate. The entire starting UCCC unit made the top 15, each meshing double figures.

Rod Chando, Uhl's backcourt companion was eighth with a 14.1 shooting average. Two places back found Frank Roselli at 13.5 while Bill Zilliox ranked number 14 on an 11.6 average. Last was center Leon Hanna with a 10.7 mark. He and Zilliox competed in nine games only.

As a team, the Senators easily won the Mid-Hudson scoring title. Connecting with 1,134 points, UCCC created a 321 point vacuum between it and the 7-3 Sullivan Generals, and the 7-3 Rockland tied for third with 5-5 marks in the loop. OCCC won out by nine for the third spot in team scoring, 780-771.

On defense, UCCC just missed taking that department, losing by a skimpy eight points to Orange. UCCC held the rest of the conference to 742 points while Orange's limit was 736.

Dear Abby

No Time Like the Present

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1968 by Chicago Tribune
N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband passed away about four months ago and left me with two children, both in high school. His best friend (a bachelor) consoled me in my grief. I really don't know what I would have done without him. We lost our heads and now I am pregnant. I was told after my last child was born that I couldn't have any more, so I can't imagine how this happened.

Anyhow, this friend says he loves me, but he doesn't think it would look good if we got married so soon after my husband's death. If I wait a full year, that will take me into next NOVEMBER, and the baby is due in SEPTEMBER. So what should I do? Please don't give me a moral lecture. I KNOW how wrong this whole thing was, but it's too late now. WIDOW IN TROUBLE: DEAR ABBY: If this friend intends to marry you, the sooner, the better. It won't look "good" no matter what you do, but the longer you wait, the worse it will look. DEAR ABBY: I have a very dear friend who lives in a distant city. We've been close friends since our school days together. Recently she wrote saying she would love to visit me. I would love to have her, but I saw her briefly about four months ago and she had her five-year-old son along who was a holy terror. Either she cannot—or will not—control him. Worse yet, she won't let anyone else correct him.

If I tell her that she is well come but to please leave her son at home, I'm afraid it would end our friendship. On the other hand, I just cannot see myself putting up with that child. What would be the best way to handle this?

PERPLEXED: DEAR ABBY: I'm afraid you will have to put this friendship on ice until the five-year-old terror either grows his obnoxiousness or his mother can leave him home.

DEAR ABBY: I am a respectable widow with many friends, married and single. Being alone, I try to lead a busy, well-balanced life to break the monotony of being only with women, women, women. Occasionally I have a lovely dinner party and invite my married friends. They always seem eager to accept and I am told I am a gracious hostess.

These people also entertain at evening parties which would be such a treat for me. But I am not invited. Instead I am invited to their afternoon luncheons with women only as a way of reciprocating.

Please print this. Perhaps these wives will recognize themselves and do something about it.

Bridge East Doubles With Four Points

By Oswald and James Jacoby
Jim: "Here is a hand illustrating several interesting points in bidding. I was West, playing rubber bridge, and there is nothing remarkable about my diamond overcall."
Oswald: "No, there wasn't. East sure came in with a brilliant, double of three no-trump. Who was he?"
Jim: "Payne Harrison of Dallas. He knew that my vulnerable minor suit overcalls are always decent hands, and he also knew that North was an overbidder. Furthermore, he wanted me to open either hearts or diamonds, not to try something unusual."
Oswald: "There we have several good points. Payne didn't have much of a double and most people wouldn't consider any ace-ten at all with his four points, but Payne possesses one characteristic of all great rubber bridge players. He has a nose for figuring out when his opponents are stepping out."
Jim: "No question about it. No guarantee went with the double, but look what he collected as a result. I opened the nine of diamonds rather than the 10, since I wanted to see if Payne held the jack. He played it. South looked disgusted and then ran off his spades and three top clubs. I had to discard a diamond on the third spade, but once South took his seventh trick we had the rest and picked up 1,000 points, instead of the mere 200 that a pass by Payne would have given us."
Oswald: "Let's see what other lessons this hand should teach us. The first lesson is that North should not have redoubled. He did have 12 high card points, but they weren't the right kind. Seven of them were his spade honors and they would have been far better if he had a small spade to back them up, since that little spade would have been one sure trick."
Jim: "The final point is that, when someone like Payne Harrison doubles you, it pays to be very careful about redoubling. These good players know what they are doing."

East Doubles With Four Points
By Oswald and James Jacoby

Jim: "Here is a hand illustrating several interesting points in bidding. I was West, playing rubber bridge, and there is nothing remarkable about my diamond overcall."

Oswald: "No, there wasn't. East sure came in with a brilliant, double of three no-trump. Who was he?"

Jim: "Payne Harrison of Dallas. He knew that my vulnerable minor suit overcalls are always decent hands, and he also knew that North was an overbidder. Furthermore, he wanted me to open either hearts or diamonds, not to try something unusual."

Oswald: "There we have several good points. Payne didn't have much of a double and most people wouldn't consider any action at all with his four points. But Payne possesses one characteristic of all great rubber bridge players. He has a nose for figuring."

wastrel (WAYS-trel)
a person who always wastes his money or time. The town's dog catcher, a person who usually displayed all the habits of the typical wastrel, was found sleeping by the side of the barn. After discovering his new employee was really a wastrel the annoyed personnel director ordered his immediate dismissal. When he had been informed by the college dean that his son had been expelled for poor grades, the disappointed father finally realized his son was a common wastrel.

'Hatful' Remains Powerful

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "A Hatful of Rain," a play written more than 10 years ago, still packed a powerful punch in its Sunday night adaptation on ABC. The two-hour drama was primarily an exposure of the horrors of narcotic addiction, complete with graphic demonstrations of withdrawal symptoms.

The overriding theme diminished the impact and importance of the human relationships among all the disturbed, unhappy people concerned.

Michael Parks and Peter Falk, as brothers, had the two meaty parts. Parks, as Johnny, was the addict, originally hooked as a hospital patient, who needed $40 a day to support his habit. Falk, as his older brother, Polo, protected him, gave him money and helped Herschel Bernardi playing the boorish, selfish father of the two men.

There were many emotion-charged scenes, particularly between Falk and Bernardi, but the most chilling moments belonged to Parks as he writhed, sweated and shook in the agony of withdrawal.

At times the story moved into soap opera territory — the wife on the verge of a miscarriage, a long reluctant scene between the older brother and the girl when he spoke of his love for her.

There was no real end of the play — the climax came when the man admitted to being a junkie. There was some vague suggestion that he would try, with medical help, to shake the habit, but that was all.

Earlier Sunday afternoon NBC's "Experiment in Television," had a romantic and poignant vignette, "Passport to Prague." The film, shot mostly in Czechoslovakia, told of an interlude in the life of a young American woman, happily married, who was in Prague briefly on business. Although she spoke no Czech, she became involved with a man there who spoke almost no English. Then, her business over, she returned to her husband.

Unusual Story
The story was told without any translation in two languages. Altogether it was unusual, and was done with delicacy and subtlety.

ABC has announced plans to show "Man in a Suitcase," a British-made action-adventure series, as a summer replacement Friday nights for its "Operation: Entertainment." The variety show, a midseason replacement, is expected to return next fall.

Being poor has its advantages — the car key is never in your other pants.

Death is feared most by those who haven't lived yet.

One of Amos Tash's fishin' buddies advised him that if he drank 30 cups of coffee a day, he'd be cured of snoring.

Amos drank 30 cups a day for a week. He doesn't snore any more, but man, does he percolate!

Hal — What is premeditated poverty?

Cal — That's when you have the patch ready before you get the hole in your pants.

One good thing about the old days — when you bought a horse you were fairly certain that the manufacturer wouldn't come out with a new model next year.

'Hatful' Remains Powerful

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "A Hatful of Rain," a play written more than 10 years ago, still packed a powerful punch in its Sunday night adaptation on ABC. The two-hour drama was primarily an exposure of the horrors of narcotic addiction, complete with graphic demonstrations of withdrawal symptoms.

The overriding theme diminished the impact and importance of the human relationships among all the disturbed, unhappy people concerned. Michael Parks and Peter Falk, as brothers, had the two meaty parts. Parks, as Johnny, was the addict, originally hooked as a hospital patient, who needed $40 a day to support his habit. Falk, as his older brother, Polo, protected him, gave him money and helped conceal his condition from his pregnant wife.

Attracted to Brother

Sandy Dennis had the somewhat thankless part of the bewildered, young wife who rather incomprehensibly did not suspect anything was wrong with her husband. But because of her husband's inattention, she was powerfully attracted to the older brother, so it was not surprising that she was not surprised when she found out that he was not her husband.

There were many emotionally-charged scenes, particularly between Falk and Bernardi, but the most chilling moments belonged to Parks as he writhed, sweated and shook in the agony of withdrawal. At times the story moved into soap opera territory—the wife on the verge of a miscarriage, a long reluctant scene between the older brother and the girl when he spoke of his love for her.

There was no real end of the play—the climax came when the man admitted to being a junkie. There was some vague suggestion that he would try, with medical help, to shake the habit, but that was all.

Earlier Sunday afternoon NBC's "Experiment in Television," had a romantic and poignant vignette, "Passport to Prague." The film, shot mostly in Czechoslovakia, told of an interlude in the life of a young American woman, happily married, who was in Prague briefly on business. Although she spoke no Czech, she became involved with a man there who spoke almost no English. Then, her business over, she returned to her husband.

Unusual Story
The story was told without any translation in two languages. Altogether it was unusual, and was done with delicacy and subtlety.

ABC has announced plans to show "Man in a Suitcase," a British-made action-adventure series, as a summer replacement Friday nights for its "Operation: Entertainment." The variety show, a midseason replacement, is expected to return next fall.

On Medicaid Showdown

Travia Vows to Crush Try of GOP

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia vowed today to crush a Republican attempt to force a showdown vote on Medicaid cutbacks in his house.

"If he pushes it, I'll beat it," said Travia of Minority Leader Perry B. Duryea's Medicaid motion.

Duryea served formal notice last week that he would move to bring a controversial Senate-approved bill to the Assembly floor — maneuver known in legislative parlance as a "discharge motion."

Would Reduce Scope
The measure would drastically reduce the scope of the Medicaid program by tightening income-eligibility standards and dropping persons aged 21 through 64 from the program.

Advocates of the cutback say it would reduce the cost to the state and level governments by about $302 million in the coming fiscal year — chopping the program approximately in half.

Travia maintained, as he has in the past, that it is too early to consider Medicaid cuts — that the Legislature first should decide what economies it might make in Gov. Rockefeller's proposed $5.5 billion budget.

"I'm not prepared to cut down on Medicaid," Travia said. "We have to see the budget first. I want to do a lot of cutting, and maybe we can keep Medicaid as it is."

Travia said he was confident that his Democratic majority would stand by him in rebuffing Duryea, even though some upstate Democrats are under pressure in their home districts to ease Medicaid's drain on local tax revenues.

The speaker said he would rule Duryea's motion out of order, on the ground that, by tradition, an assemblyman may move only to discharge one of his own bills — not a Senate measure.

He also voiced sharp criticism of Duryea's "premature" effort to force a showdown on the issue, saying that Duryea instead should be joining in the hunt for budget economies.

"He ought to start thinking as a leader, not a bomb thrower," Travia snapped.

The Medicaid problem shared billing with another lively issue — the right of policemen and homeowners to shoot at criminal suspects — as the Legislature prepared to reconvene for another three-day work week.

Further action on the state lottery also was expected. The so-called "deadly force" bill was ready for passage, and Travia and Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges said they would like to bring it to a vote today, or Tuesday at the latest.

The bi-partisan measure, which has wide support in both houses, was drafted in response to complaints that the state's re-modeled penal law unduly restricts the right of police to shoot at criminal suspects and of homeowners to defend their property.

As the law now stands, a policeman may not shoot at a suspect unless he believes the suspect has used or threatened to use "deadly physical force" in committing a crime or is prepared to do so in avoiding arrest. Police say this handicaps them and makes them vulnerable to attack.

The new measure would permit police to shoot if they believed the suspect had used or was going to use any kind of force — not necessarily force that would kill.

Similarly, under the present law, a homeowner may not shoot to kill an intruder unless he believes the person is going to use force on him. The new law would permit the occupant to shoot when he "reasonably believes such to be necessary to prevent or terminate" a criminal intrusion.

City Tax, Business-- Legislators Concerned

In a statement released today, four County Legislators from Kingston expressed their deep concern for the city businessmen due to the impact of the additional two per cent sales tax.

Legislators Melvin Mones (R-King), Wendell Scherer (R-King), John Sangaline (R-King) and Addison Jones (R-King) indicated they intend to recommend that the County implement a similar tax.

Sangaline has already introduced a resolution to this effect which is now under study by the Tax Base Study Committee of the County Legislature. This would eliminate the unfair competitive position in which local businesses find themselves.

A spokesman for this group said that "Regardless of how we felt about a sales tax prior to Kingston having instituted it, common sense now dictates that we direct our attention towards urging the County Legislature to adopt such a source of revenue. The business community of this city must be protected and at the same time, we are hopeful that real estate levies might be reduced, depending thereupon upon the actual amount of monies realized from this tax." It was further emphasized that "This proposal in no way indicates that we are ignoring any sentiments from the rest of the county just for the sake of Kingston, but, two major points must be raised. First, the City of Kingston is in fact the population and commercial center for Ulster County, and a business recession in the city could only reflect disastrously upon the entire area. Secondly, and perhaps most important, facing the near future realistically, the fixed expenses of county government will rise, if for no other reason but for the present and anticipated cost of the Medicaid program. We have already seen our Social Service and Welfare appropriation exceed seven million dollars in this year. Even if the New York State Legislature does effect some revisions in Medicaid, it will only be a short time before costs will soar again as more people qualify as recipients. Real estate can't bear the brunt any more."

The Legislators went on to say "that it is but a matter of time before a sales tax will be absolutely essential." They stressed the fact that Ulster County's situation is not unique. Many counties in the state have found it necessary to apply a sales tax. It also noted that efforts are being made by officials of adjoining counties, as well as Ulster, to implement this tax.

In concluding their statement, the Legislators expressed the opinion "so that our county government may continue to function in a positive and businesslike manner, there are times when certain unpalatable, but sensible, acts must be inaugurated. We can not allow an economic recession to occur when it obviously can be prevented. To maintain a healthy and progressive community, selfish and impractical motives must be set aside."

City Tax, Business--- Legislators Concerned

In a statement released today, four County Legislators from Kingston expressed their deep concern for the city businessmen due to the impact of the additional two per cent sales tax.

Legislators Melvin Mones (R-King), Wendell Scherer (R-King), John Sangaline (R-King) and Addison Jones (R-King) indicated they intend to recommend that the County implement a similar tax.

Sangaline has already introduced a resolution to this effect which is now under study by the Tax Base Study Committee of the County Legislature. This would eliminate the unfair competitive position in which local businesses find themselves.

A spokesman for this group said that "Regardless of how we felt about a sales tax prior to Kingston having instituted it, common sense now dictates that we direct our attention towards urging the County Legislature to adopt such a source of revenue. The business community of this city must be protected and at the same time, we are hopeful that real estate levies might be reduced, depending thereon upon the actual amount of monies realized from this tax." It was further emphasized that "This proposal in no way indicates that we are ignoring any sentiments from the rest of the county just for the sake of Kingston, but, two

Travia Vows to Crush Try of GOP

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia vowed today to crush a Republican attempt to force a showdown vote on Medicaid cutbacks in his house.

"If he pushes it, I'll beat it," said Travia of Minority Leader Perry B. Duryea's Medicaid motion.

Duryea served formal notice last week that he would move to bring a controversial Senate-approved bill to the Assembly floor — maneuver known in legislative parlance as a "discharge motion."

Would Reduce Scope

The measure would drastically reduce the scope of the Medicaid program by tightening income-eligibility standards and dropping persons aged 21 through 64 from the program.

Advocates of the cutback say it would reduce the cost to the state and level governments by about $302 million in the coming fiscal year — chopping the program approximately in half.

Travia maintained, as he has in the past, that it is too early to consider Medicaid cuts — that the Legislature first should decide what economies it might make in Gov. Rockefeller's proposed $5.5 billion budget.

"I'm not prepared to cut down on Medicaid," Travia said. "We have to see the budget first. I want to do a lot of cutting, and maybe we can keep Medicaid as it is."

Travia said he was confident that his Democratic majority would stand by him in rebuffing Duryea, even though some upstate Democrats are under pressure in their home districts to ease Medicaid's drain on local tax revenues.

The speaker said he would rule Duryea's motion out of order, on the ground that, by tradition, an assemblyman may move only to discharge one of his own bills — not a Senate measure.

He also voiced sharp criticism of Duryea's "premature" effort to force a showdown on the issue, saying that Duryea instead should be joining in the hunt for budget economies.

"He ought to start thinking as a leader, not a bomb thrower," Travia snapped.

The Medicaid problem shared billing with another lively issue — the right of policemen and homeowners to shoot at criminal suspects — as the legislature prepared to reconvene for another three-day work week.

Further action on the state lottery also was expected.

The so-called "deadly force" bill was ready for passage, and Travia and Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges said they would like to bring it to a vote today, or Tuesday at the latest.

The bi-partisan measure, which has wide support in both houses, was drafted in response to complaints that the state's restrictive right of police to shoot at criminal suspects and of homeowners to defend their property.

As the law now stands, a policeman may not shoot at a suspect unless he believes the suspect has used or threatened to use "deadly physical force" in committing a crime or is prepared to do so in avoiding arrest. Police say this handicaps them and makes them vulnerable to attack.

Panama Prexy Waits Out Impeachment Try

By LUIS NOLI

PANAMA (AP) — President Marco A. Robles and his Cabinet were holed up in National Guard headquarters today as the National Assembly prepared to consider a petition asking his impeachment on charges of illegal political activity.

The National Union of Opposition, a group of five parties, claimed it had enough votes to suspend Robles from office and order an impeachment trial by the assembly. An opposition leader, First Vice President Max Delvalle, then would become chief executive.

Robles and his Cabinet moved Sunday into the headquarters of the guard, Panama's army. The pro government television station said he had "assumed command" of the guard in order to face up to "subversion." The opposition radio said the guard continued under "absolute control" of Brig. Gen. Bolivar Valarino.

twice has been elected president of Panama and twice deposed. The winner should take office in October.

Reports circulated that representatives of the administration and the opposition met at guard headquarters to discuss a compromise, including cancellation of today's rallies, but there was no word on the outcome.

The charges against Robles are based on his support of Samudio. The Christian Democrat party, which has no seats in the assembly, filed a complaint that Robles violated constitutional provisions banning the president from participating in a political campaign.

It also accused him of firing government employees opposing Samudio and permitting the use of state resources for political purposes.

Loses Support

When he came out for Samudio, Robles lost the support of four of the eight parties that carried him to power in 1964. The opposition union said it now has 29 deputies in the 42-seat assembly who will vote to suspend Robles. A vote of two-thirds of the deputies—28—is needed. Opposition sources said the government was pressing at least three deputies to desert the opposition.

Arias said in his broadcast speech that free elections would be impossible under Robles. Samudio replied that the opposition maneuver is a "parliamentary coup d'etat." He said the opposition deputies are "partial judges" who will vote in compliance with instructions issued by their parties.
